RUSSIANS BOMB FINN HOSPITALS

MOSCOW—(INS)—Virtually wiping world news from the pages of Russian newspapers, Dictator Josef Stalin celebrated his 60th birthday anniversary today and received new decorations in observance of the occasion.

The presidium of the supreme Soviet awarded Stalin the order of Lenin and the title: "Hero of Socialist Labor."

BERLIN—(INS)—Chancellor Hitler sent a message to Josef Stalin today, congratulating the Soviet dictator upon his 60th birthday anniversary.

"Please accept my most sincere congratulations upon your 60th birthday," the Fuehrer's message said," and my best wishes for your personal welfare."

Bombers Roar Over Helsinki, Nearby Towns

Seven of 10 Hospital Buildings Hit In Red Attacks; Finland Says Soviet Battleship Damaged By Shots From Coast Battery; Stalin Celebrates.

BULLETIN

ROME—(INS)—Finnish planes flew over the Soviet city of Leningrad today without dropping bombs and without encountering resistance, the Rome radio reported today.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Soviet Russian planes today bombed a hospital dormitory, heavily damaged a school for the blind, and struck seven out of 10 other hospital buildings. Two hospital patients were among the injured, and some deaths were reported likely.

This raid on Helsinki, coming on the sixtieth birthday of Joseph Stalin, the Russian leader, started at 11:58 a. m. (4:58 a. m., EST), and followed earlier attacks on towns for 25 miles around the capital.

(As this story was being sent via Copenhagen, the connection suddenly was severad, presumably by another air raid alarm.)

It was the third successive day of aerial attacks on Helsinki and vicinity.

A direct hit on the Soviet Russian 23,265-ton battleship Oktaibrskaya-Revolutia (October Revolution) was reported by Finnish officials as the Finnish-Russian war raged on land and in the air.

The Finnish announcement said the hit was scored by coast defense batteries guarding Koivisto, a Gulf of Finland seaport about 60 miles northwest of Leningrad.

On three warfronts, Finnish defenders held their snow-sheathed lines, aided by blizzards and bitter cold, against the Red army's massed warplanes and tanks.

(A Danish news dispatch to Copenhagen reported two days ago that the October Revolution had been sunk. This, however, was denied unofficially in Helsinki before confirmation today that the warship had been hit.

(One of three Russian battleships, the October Revolution was completed in 1914 and was part of the czarist fleet in the World war as the Gangut. Her normal crew is 1,125 men and her heaviest weapons 12 12-inch and 16 4.1-inch cannon.

(A Russian destroyer and patrol ship were reported sunk by the Finns last week.)

The extent of damage was not known but reports from scattered towns indicated a heavy toll of civilian deaths and injuries.

Provincial advices indicated also that about 200 Russian planes were seen in the widespread attacks.

The Soviet Russian forces, stretched on three sides like a great hand trying to clench, were stopped on the Karelian isthmus in the south and in the southeast after raging battles in which the invaders used hundreds of tanks.

In the southeast, where the Russians hope to split Finland at her narrowest in a westward drive, the Finns said they had taken the initiative and were advancing toward Salla.

(Salla is 32 miles on a straight line west from the Russian frontier. If the Finnish report means

PROTEST WAR ACTS IN ZONE OF NEUTRALITY

U. S. and 20 Latin American Republics Draft Joint Note to Germany, Britain.

PLAN 'CONCRETE ACTION'

Several Nations Propose to Back Demands by Warning of 'Definite Steps.'

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The United States and the 20 Latin American Republics have agreed to make a vigorous joint diplomatic protest against European war activities within the western hemisphere neutrality zone it was learned today in authoratative quarters.

This agreement followed nearly a week of continuous consultation between the Pan American governments over the British-German naval engagement off the shores of Uruguay involving the Nazi pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

Decision to engage in the united action was hastened by further sea warfare activities inside the 300-mile neutrality belt this week — the reported firing on the German freighter Arauca by the British cruiser Orion off the Florida coast and the scuttling of the German liner Columbus off the Delaware Capes to prevent capture by an English destroyer.

Some differences over the wording may delay release of the protest for several days it was reported.

Includes Warning Note.

At the suggestion of the United States, Argentina, Brazil and several other countries, the communication will serve notice on belligerent powers that the Pan American nations stand ready to back up their demands with concrete action.

At the department, it was revealed that two proposals have received considerable attention. One calls for internment of belligerent warships of a nation that is declared to have violated the provisions of the Panama neutrality declaration.

The second would prohibit belligerent warships from using any of the port facilities of the American neutrals.

AP's Ten Best Stories of the Decade and of the Year

By CHARLES E. HONCE
(Associated Press News Editor)

THE DECADE of 1930-40 opened with the beginnings of a world-wide depression and closed with the start of what may be a world-wide war.

War Strikes Again (1939)

Although it was the last great event of the period, the war, which already has wiped out Poland and impaired the sovereignty of other states, must rank first in importance because of its potentialities; and the adjustments of peace are going to be as excruciating at the throes of conflict.

This new strange war, however, is only an extension of bloody strife that has been raging the world 'round for years. The Japanese effort to establish a "new order in the Far East," which touched the United States through the "Panay" bombing, is in its third year and apparently as far from conclusion as ever.

Three years of sanguinary Spanish civil war ended this year. There was war in Ethiopia, in Albania, in Palestine, in Manchuria, in Mongolia, in South America—and elsewhere, as nation after nation disappeared from the map.

The 10-year grind finds a considerable part of the world already war weary, with neutrals backing away and saying this is not down our alley. Whether they can maintain their aloofness remains to be seen; war gives little consideration to those on the sidelines—as Finland found out.

The New Deal Arrives (1933)

On March 6, 1933, all American banks were closed by proclamation of the new president—Franklin D. Roosevelt. Thus started the "New Deal" as hysteria gripped the nation.

One hundred days of emergency legislation followed; then vast programs for the nation. Some of the legislation stuck; some was thrown out, but every individual was affected through the social and economic changes involved in the Wagner labor act, old age pensions, social security, the securities act, reciprocal trade treaties, devaluation of the dollar; increase in national defense and a spate of other measures and actions, accompanied by a huge increase in the national debt.

The period saw a tremendous upsurge in labor, the rise of the CIO, strikes and internecine strife.

Next year comes another presidential election, with much speculation as to a third term for the man who brought the New Deal into being.

A Baby Is Kidnaped (1932)

The Lindbergh kidnaping undoubtedly will go down as the most amazing crime in American annals. There is nothing to match this tragedy of fantastic figures and incredible events that opened in the dour Sourland mountain region of New Jersey on

Not many people — or cities either—get a $75,000 Christmas present. So you can't blame these chaps for having such satisfied looks on their faces as they look over the picture of the modernized station the Pennsylvania railroad announced yesterday it would build here. It was the Roads Christmas gift to Mansfield. Seated on the private Pennsylvania official car where the announcement was made are John G. Routzon, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; George L. Draffan, chairman of the special C. of C. committee, which had been working to obtain station improvements; R. C. Miller, general superintendent of railroad who announced the undertaking, and C. L. Van Derau, C. of C. president.

SOARING YULE BUSINESS UP 15 TO 30 PER CENT

'Buying Wave' Sweeps Stores as Outgoing Holiday Mail Sets All-Time Record.

Cash registers jingled a merry tune today as Mansfield's Christmas shopping rush hit its peak and customers crowded into downtown stores.

Merchants happily reported better business than last year and gains in retail sales ranging from 15 to 30 per cent were reported.

The soaring retail business reflected increased tax collections while record Christmas mail yesterday set a new all-time high for outgoing letters and cards at the Mansfield postoffice.

V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants association predicted that Christmas sales this year would show an increase of $250,000 over last year, boosted by a last-minute buying rush stimulated by Christmas bonuses distributed by several Mansfield industries.

Mailing Hits 146,400.

Yesterday's mailing at the postoffice which totaled 146,400 letters and cards eclipsed the previous record of 140,300 set Dec. 22, 1938, by more than 6,000.

WANTS OUSTER

Ramspeck Asks Removal of 2 Labor Board Members.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rep. Robert Ramspeck, D., Ga., declared today that "confidence" in the national labor relations board cannot be restored until Chairman J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith are dropped from membership.

He urged creation of a new labor board, with reappointment of Dr. William M. Leiserson, who advocated two other Wagner act amendments — to permit employes to petition for collective bargaining elections, and to curb the NLRB's power over the appropriate bargaining unit.

Ramspeck, ranking Democratic member of the house labor committee next to Chairman Mary Norton, D., N. J., said that hearings before the special house committee investigating the NLRB had emphasized the need for changes in labor board personnel and in the law itself.

Winter Arrives Friday But It's Not Spring Today

The weather jumped the gun today and although winter won't officially begin until 1:06 p. m. Friday, Mansfield had a snow covering and sub-freezing temperatures.

In Mansfield the snow measured about a half inch, hardly enough to make it a "white Christmas" unless more falls before Monday. Most of the state had some snow and at Painesville three inches fell last night during a "vest-pocket blizzard."

The weatherman refused to predict snow for Christmas, but he said it will be colder with snow flurries tonight. Friday will be fair and cold, he added.

The temperature in Mansfield dropped to 21 degrees this morning and it was still 21 at 10 a. m.

Tomorrow will be the shortest day of the year, but it will be only a few seconds shorter than today. There will be just nine hours and 19 minutes of daylight Friday.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (INS) —President Roosevelt today told Ohio CIO Director John Owens that he could send army soup kitchens into Ohio this winter if that became necessary to prevent starvation during the so-called relief crisis there.

The kitchens would be under the direction of the WPA, however, the president told Owens, and such a step will be taken only if it becomes necessary to prevent starvation.

Roosevelt Approves Dispatch of U. S. Officers to Fight Disease.

WASHINGTON — (INS)—Moving after the presence of typhus fever in Finland was reported to the United States government, President Roosevelt today approved the dispatch of two American health officers to Finland for special medical duty to fight the disease.

The White House announced that apparently the present outbreak comprises the first inroad this type of fever ever made into the bracing climate of Finland.

15,000 BOOST FUND FOR FINNS

Contributions by a crowd of 15,000 who paid their way into Madison Square Garden last night in New York City to hear Herbert Hoover and a long list of speakers denounce Soviet Russia for the attack on Finland, added $50,000 to the Finnish Relief Fund.

But while the fund in New York City leaped ahead, Mansfield contributions lagged. The day's receipts of $23.25 brought the Mansfield total to $494.73.

Mansfielders and persons in this vicinity who contributed to the fund today are Floyd Shoup, 349 Ohio street; Charles Young, 468 North Mulberry; H. Neer, Bellville; Star of Hope class, South Main Evangelical church; Albert W. Gore, Lexington, Jacob Berlo, 345 South Diamond street; Irene Roof, 65 Altamont; and several anonymous contributions.

Mansfield's elation over its $75,000 Christmas gift from the Pennsylvania railroad — a modernized passenger station — found expression today in the appreciative comment of Mansfield business executives, members of a special Chamber of Commerce committee which had worked tirelessly for improvement of the station.

To them the announcement made by railroad officials yesterday climaxed six years of working and hoping—it was in 1934 that the Chamber of Commerce first started agitating for a new station. Paul W. Williams, now in Dayton, was secretary at the time. When John G. Routzon came here last year, he helped to keep the station improvement campaign going.

Working with C. L. Van Derau, C. of C. president, for the past year have been the committee on passenger stations, headed by George L. Draffan; the committee on transportation, of which C. K. Smaltz is chairman; Routzon, and the membership in general.

Routzon today expressed the sentiments of the C. of C. when he said: "Naturally the Chamber of Commerce, and particularly the

LINDY QUITS

Resigns Position in National Aeronautics Advisory Body.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — White House Secretary Stephen T. Early disclosed today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has resigned from the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

The president has appointed Brig. Gen. Walter G. Kilner to succeed him.

NACA Chairman Vannevar Bush wrote Mr. Roosevelt that Lindbergh had informed him that he did not expect to concentrate his attention on aeronautical matters in the future.

No News-Journal Editions To Be Published Christmas Day

TO permit employes to spend the holiday with their families, The News-Journal will not publish any editions on Monday, Christmas day.

Papers will be published on Sunday, Dec. 24, and on Monday, New Year day, in accordance with the recently announced intention to give News-Journal readers the news every day, including holidays.

The decision to forego publishing on Christmas was made in the belief that Christmas is the one day in the year when worldly and material interests should come second to the holiday spirit. It will allow News-Journal employes, including hundreds of carriers, to enjoy an unbroken holiday.

And so, with one exception, the latest news in this day of big stories and fast-breaking developments will be brought to your doorstep every day in the year.

Suburban dealers and carriers are asked to take notice of this announcement.

HUNTS HIT-SKIP DRIVER AS FARM HAND'S INJURED

Sheriff Says Butler Man Was Carrying Lantern When Hit Walking Along Road.

Believed struck last night by a hit-skip driver near his home in Worthington township, Samuel Anderson, 56, R. D. 1, Butler, a farm hand, was in a serious condition today in Mansfield General hospital.

Sheriff E. P. Long, who is investigating, said Anderson was knocked down as he walked along a narrow township road near his home about 6 p. m. by a driver who failed to stop.

At the hospital here, it was said he received fractures of several ribs, a spine injury, cuts about the head, and a possible fracture of his right foot.

Neighbor Hears Cries.

Archie Meyers who lives near the accident scene heard Anderson call for help and took him to the Meyers home. Myers and Otis Oswalt, a neighbor, then took Anderson to a physician in Butler and later to the hospital.

Sheriff Long said Anderson was carrying a lighted lantern when he was struck and it was hardly possible that the automobile driver failed to see him. It was snowing at the time.

Anderson is employed on the McClellan farm between Butler and Newville and was walking back to the farm from a neighbor's home when he was struck by the car.

He was unable to give a description of the car. Farmers near the accident scene said they saw a car pass shortly before Anderson was found.

NAMES RASCHIG

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Frank L. Raschig, Cincinnati, today was named state director of public works by Gov. John W. Bricker. He will succeed Carl Wahl, of Defiance, a Davey appointee, on Jan. 1.

An assistant state highway director during the Cooper administration, Raschig at present, is highway department division engineer in the Cincinnati area.

His new post carries a salary of $6,500 a year and is a cabinet position.

The public works director is appointed for a term of one year. He has charge of all state-owned buildings. Wahl was reappointed for a one-year term by former Governor Davey shortly before Governor Bricker was inaugurated.

SUICIDE: All German Ships Carry 'Scuttle Squads' Nazis Say

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Survivors of the German liner Columbus told today how Nazi ships carry trained "scuttle squads" to comply with general orders from Berlin requiring them to burn and sink their own vessels rather than let them fall into enemy hands.

The Columbus, destroyed by its own crew Tuesday off the American coast after it sighted a British destroyer, was the 12th Nazi ship sent to the bottom under Adolf Hitler's maritime policy of suicide before capture.

Its master, Captain Wilhelm Daehne, who with 576 other survivors was taken to Ellis Island last night from the rescue vessel, the U. S. cruiser Tuscaloosa, seemed depressed at the loss of his ship but shrugged fatalistically when asked why he had given the command to sink it.

"You get an order and you obey," he said quietly. "You don't ask questions. . . . "

The lean, middle-aged German sea captain said the Columbus, scuttled within the American neutrality zone 240 miles southeast of Nantucket shoals lightship, carried no weapons other than "six pairs of boxing gloves."

The crew members were highly excited on docking at Ellis Island to read of the suicide at Buenos Aires of Capt. Hans Langsdorff of the Admiral Graf Spee, who scut-

PROTEST: Germany Demands Release for Crew of Graf Spee

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Germany protested today to the Argentine government against internment of officers and crew of the scuttled pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee.

A communique by DNB, official German news agency, said Germany called Argentina's attention to the fact that shipwrecked crews of belligerent states customarily are released after reaching neutral ports.

It cited as a precedent that the Netherlands government released survivors of the Aboukir, Cressy and Hogue, British ships which were torpedoed in one day in 1914 with loss of more than 1,200 lives.

Germany contends that the Admiral Graf Spee's men similarly should be classed as "shipwrecked."

There still was no official comment on the German liner Columbus, scuttled by her crew southeast of New York.

The high command today reported "somewhat livelier artillery activity" on the western front and the shooting down of a French scouting plane near Pirmasens.

DNB said that when the British prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, visited France last week, German fliers crossed the front to drop him an umbrella with a note: "The German air force regrets that Mr. Chamberlain was forced

The parents of the Carpenter school children were the guests at the program presented last night at the school by all the children of the school. The entire faculty of the school assisted with the presentation, of songs, dances and recitations. This was the regular P. T. A. meeting.

PRE-HOLIDAY EVENTS CROWD LAST FEW DAYS

WITH Christmas only a few days away now, all entertaining has settled down to pre-holiday parties and exchanges of gifts. Members of Pi Alpha Gamma sorority were the guests of Miss Sarah Catherine Wallace, Park avenue west, last night for a Christmas party. Mrs. Van L. Stevenson was associate hostess, and Miss Margaret Black conducted the games. Gifts were exchanged when members played a modified form of musical chairs.

Various games were played, and prizes were won by Miss Kathryn E. Culp, Miss Isabel Mosey, Miss Virginia Wagner, Miss Margaret Evans and Miss Florence White. At the close of play refreshments were served at small tables. Ice cream in various yuletide molds and cake decorated with frosting holly were served.

* * *

A formal progressive dinner party entertained a group of girls employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company office last night. The first course was served at the home of Miss Dorothy Leech followed by the main course at the home of Miss Louise Enderle. Miss Eleanor Star and Miss Dorothy Arter assisted.

BUSINESS MEETING HELD.

Routine business was transacted at the meeting of the Miriam Rebekah lodge Wednesday in the I. O. O. F. hall. Lois Addlesberger was in charge. Another meeting, Jan. 3, will feature a covered-dish dinner for the Sewing circle at noon, and installation of officers of the lodge.

Candlelight Service Held By Church Group

Mrs. J W. Waddell, East Fourth street, opened her home to members of the Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church, Wednesday, with Mrs. W. F. Miller as associate hostess.

Mrs. W. E. Shane, president, conducted a short business session, and Mrs. A. E. Courtney was in charge of devotions. Mrs. Waddell gave the program of the afternoon, entitled, "A Candlelight Service," in which she reviewed outstanding events in the lives of deceased missionaries, as well as members of the organization. As she told of each member she lighted a candle in her memory. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next event will be a meeting at the home of Mrs. George Rusk, West First street, with Mrs. W. E. Shane as associate.

THEATERS

This and That: No death, in recent years save that of Irving Thalberg, has so shocked the film colony as Douglas Fairbanks.' Only a few days before his death he had a thorough examination and was pronounced physically fit. He had an all-day conference with a director and had just OK'd the architect's plans for a new house on his ranch. . . . Errol Flynn has sold his plane and now he's offering his yacht, the pride and joy of his heart, for sale. No one can understand it. . . . That quarrel between Dorothy Lamour and 20th Century might have been avoided for she can't cut her hair anyway. Her Paramount contract forbids it, but Dottie didn't know it. . . . With "New Moon" about finished, Jeanette MacDonald is planning another concert tour.

Young Skating Star.

Romance and spectacular ice ballets are combined in "Everything's On Ice," the film which introduces a six-year-old beauty who skates like a younger edition of Sonja Henie. The action takes place in Palm Beach, with Roscoe Karns as an uncle of the child prodigy, who is being built up as a super attraction. The second attraction at the Madison through Friday is "Joe and Ethel Turp Call on the President," a human interest story with Ann Southern, William Gargan and Walter Brennan.

* * *

Runs Through Friday.

A man and a woman who meet twice, fall in love twice and are married twice is the theme of "Remember?" at the Ohio. Robert Taylor and Greer Garson are the couple, with Lew Ayers as the other man who tries a remedy which boomerangs. Not that he minds the boomerang, so long as he can analyze it. Miss Garson is an English actress who came to Hollywood and waited a year before she got her big chance in "Mr. Chips." In some scenes she is remindful of Irene Dunne. The picture runs through Friday.

* * *

Story of Spies.

With everybody grabbing the newspaper to see the front page news on the foreign situation, there is interest in everything which touches on the war and the scenes behind it. Which is one reason why spy pictures are in demand. In "They Made Her a Spy," opening at the Park Friday, Sally Eilers plays a spy who pits her brain against a ring of saboteurs who operate in the national capital. Allan Lane plays opposite her. "Timber Stampede" with George O'Brien, also is on the bill.

* * *

Fiction Detective.

The popular fiction detective, Oliver Quade, makes his screen debut in "Death of a Champion," showing at the Ritz Friday and Saturday. Lynne Overman, who is something of a champion himself, in the matter of clever character portrayal, is seen as Quade. The story starts on a note of comedy but swings to something more sinister. The Western feature on the bill is Johnny Mack Brown in "Desperate Trails."

One of the first series of Torchy pictures will be offered at the Majestic the last two days of the week. This is "Torchy Gets Her Man" with the original stars, Glenda Farrell and Barton MacLane. The series has recently been started over with Jane Wyman and Allen Jenkins. Torchy is the smart newspaper woman and MacLane is her not-too-bright detective friend. Tim McCoy in "Outlaw's Paradise" is the second attraction.

HE NEEDED IT!

BOSTON —(INS)— "Devonshire 1212," the Boston police emergency call, proved a bit too slow for Patrick McGregor, 19. When his girl friend's father became irritated with him, McGregor leaped 10 feet from a window and rang two false alarm to "get protection."

Westies, Sohioans Can Throw Race Into Deadlock

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE curtain has been rung down on the scholastic football season for several weeks, but the battle over the identity of the Ohio champion continues to rage.

Massillon is generally conceded the championship, but Toledo Waite believes it has more claim to the mythical crown than the Tigers of Stark county.

Waite bases its claim on the victory it scored over Portsmouth in a post-season game in Columbus this month.

As far as Mansfield is concerned, Massillon is the champion. Tyger followers saw the Massillons, probably more of them than they wanted to see, and they cannot see how it would be possible for the Toledo team to be anywhere near as strong as the Tigers.

The undefeated Toledo Waite's schedule was as tough as Massillon's, it cannot be denied, but did the Toledoans show the superiority over their foes in the same manner as did the Tigers? We don't believe so.

It was mentioned in a Cleveland paper this week by a prejudiced Toledo writer that the Toledo high school league is the strongest in the state, and also mentioned that the Tigers would throw up the sponge after playing in it a couple of weeks.

At one time this might have been true. Toledo did boast of the strongest scholastic gridiron wheel in the state, not to mention the country, but those days are past.

The calibre of football in Toledo has decreased with the construction of additional high schools. The Waite team this year is an exception to the general run of Toledo elevens.

* * *

Massillon would more than hold its own with Toledo schools in this day of football, we're certain.

* * *

Gehringer Again Ready to Romp.

THE subject of much speculation for some time as to whether he'll be able to stick it out through his 15th full season, Charley Gehringer, apparently, has convinced the Bengal bosses that he is ready to carry on again next year.

* * *

The tip-off came a couple of weeks ago when young Benny McCoy, who was expected to take Charley's place, was placed on the market.

* * *

Gehringer, who'll be 37 before opening day rolls around, suffered a badly pulled leg muscle last June in the all-star game at Cooperstown, N. Y., and some of the boys said he was through.

Joe Gordon, the Yankee's flash, took the play away from Gehringer last season, it is true, but the Detroit veteran didn't do so badly. He appeared in 118 games, hit .325 and his 132 hits included 16 home runs, six triples and 29 doubles. He fanned only 16 times.

* * *

Previous to the 1939 campaign, Gehringer had compiled a record which undoubtedly will qualify him some day for baseball's hall of fame. During 13 full season's his major league average was .327.

* * *

It probably will be a long time before his all-star game record is matched. Playing through every contest of the first six all-star duels, he had a batting average of .500 and handled 25 chances without error.

GASCO CLUB DEFEATED IN FIRST PISTOL MATCH

The Richland Gasco Rifle and Pistol club dropped an 1198 to 1059 decision to the Galion Rifle and Pistol club in a pistol match at the Galion armory last night.

Dr. Hathaway annexed individual honors with a 269 score, while J. Haspeslagh added a 261 total to the Mansfield score. Bunden led the winners with a 257 mark.

Fears Canton Cagers

Coach Hoffman Well Aware of Size of Task Confronting Tygers Friday.

COACH Vern Hoffman appears to have a pretty good idea as to the strength of Canton McKinley, the Tygers' foe in the Canton basketball arena Friday night.

"McKinley has a rangy, powerful club which has all kinds of possibilities," the Mansfield high coach said yesterday as he sent his Tygers through their last heavy drill of the week.

* * *

Proof of the Bulldogs' strength was given last week when Coach "Bup" Rearick's club opened with a one-sided 45 to 28 triumph over Akron West, usually a power on the court.

* * *

"But," Hoffman declared, "Jack Dugger at center can hardly be classed as inexperienced. Dugger showed that he fits into the Canton system pretty well when he led the scoring against West with a dozen points."

Dugger is the former Mansfield high school star, who transferred to Canton before the opening of the grid season.

The ex-Tyger gives Canton considerable height around the basket, and Mansfield's Russ Beer will probably find it difficult to control the rebound as he has in other games.

Canton will hold a good-sized edeg in height. Ray Hooper, diminutive junior guard, is the only starter under six feet. He will be paired with Tom Carnes, who saw considerable service last season in relief roles

Jim Inman, a letterman, or Alex Vargo will be paired at the forward posts with Capt. Ryman.

The squad is well-balanced and so far no outstanding star has emerged. Ryman and Hooper rate as the deadliest shots in the lineup.

Hoffman, who received much satisfaction from the Tygers' 61 to 17 rout of Elyria is pleased with the improvement the club has shown in workouts this week.

* * *

Don Rose, a guard, has been particularly outstanding in the drills. He has worked well in the plays Hoffman has devised to have the guards drive into the basket.

* * *

The Mansfield reserves will accompany the Tygers to Canton, and are scheduled to appear in the preliminary at 7:30 p. m.

Vols Entrain For Rose Bowl

It's Still Doubtful Whether Cafego Will Be Able to Go Against Trojans.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (AP) — Tennessee's undefeated, untied and unscored on football team arranged to head for California's Rose Bowl today amid a lot of fuss over the injured knee of Halfback George (Bad News) Cafego.

Whether Cafego would be ready to rumble at top speed against Southern California in the New Year's day classic at Pasadena remained a big question.

* * *

He is making his game preparations on the assumption Cafego will be ready, but just in case, Buist Warren and Johnny Butler, the sophomore flash, have been groomed for the tailback spot.

"Johnny Butler is doing so well I may not even get in the Rose Bowl game," Cafego commented. "Why, that Johnny is a threat every time he gets his hands on the ball."

OK With Slapnicka If Feller Enters Movies.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Bob Feller had the permission of the Cleveland Indians to become a "celluloid cowboy"—as long as he doesn't imperil his "million-dollar pitching arm."

The 21-year-old pitcher is considering a Hollywood offer to take part in six westerns. C. C. Slapnicka, Cleveland vice-president, commented: "If it's a good proposition and won't interfere with his baseball career it might be a good thing. I certainly wouldn't approve anything that might harm that million-dollar pitching arm."

Feminine Grapplers Head Card

Mildred Burke Puts Title on Block in Match at Armory Tonight.

TIM NOLAN'S Quality Athletic club will present its Christmas gift to Mansfield tonight in the form of a wrestling show, featuring two prominent members of the women's grapple brigade.

The Armory grapple show will be headlined by a match labeled as a women's title bout between the champion, Mildred Burke, and Princess Rose White Cloud, who has gained quite a following in her few appearances here.

* * *

Another bout on the card will pit Kimon Kudo, a Japanese star, against Davey Reynolds, well-known to Mansfield wrestling-goers.

* * *

The Cherokee Indian, the challenger, and Champion Burke will tangle in a one fall match, with a 60-minute time limit.

Reynolds' meeting with Kudo will undoubtedly provide the fastest action of the current season and the result should be in doubt right up until the final bell. Kudo's mastery of his self-developed "arm strangle" may decide the issue, but Reynolds has upset the dope before and can be counted upon as a tough foe for the almond-eyed oriental.

* * *

Kudo and Reynolds will try for two falls, with a 90-minute time limit, and the winner will be in line for still more important tangles in this vicinity. The local club is already dickering for an outstanding "name" matman to face the victor, so the "pressure" will definitely be on tonight.

* * *

Opening tonight's card is a one-fall, 30-minute time limit tangle between the Masked Marvel and Gus Johnson of Minneapolis. It will be in the ring promptly at 8:30.

WINS ON KAYO

BOLVIN STOPS DUPRE

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Larry Bolvin, 121¼, Providence, stopped Tony Dupre, 123, Manchester, N. H., (2).

Battle County Leader

Ontario Warriors in Position to Jumble Title Race at Bellville Tonight.

COACH Orville Kibler's Ontario high cagers will be offered a chance to climb into a first place tie in the Richland county league tonight.

The Ontarions perform at Bellville, and a victory for the Kiblermen will throw the county race into a three-way deadlock with the host Bluejays, who are undefeated, and Madison, which whipped Union last night.

In another game of interest to basketball fans in this vicinity tonight, Galion plays at Marion in an N.C.O. conference tussle.

* * *

Butler plays at Lucas in the only county league tilt on schedule Friday, and the N.C.O. league tilts take Shelby to Mt. Vernon and Ashland to Bucyrus.

* * *

Madison Chalks Up Third Straight Win.

MADISON high's hoopsters chalked up their third Richland county league triumph last night by swamping a fighting Union high quintet, 40 to 33, before a near-capacity gathering on the Union court.

* * *

Coach Al Fendrick's cagers, playing their only game this week, gained an edge in the opening chapter, but had to fight all the way to retain the margin.

* * *

A free-scoring initial chapter gave the Rams a slim advantage and they added at least one point to the margin in the other three quarters.

Madison, which shares second place with Ontario in the county championship race, closed its preholiday activity with all but one player tallying at least four points.

The Rams led, 12-11, in the opening period, 19 to 17, at the intermission, and 33 to 29, as play opened in the final stanza.

* * *

Bob Matthes copped individual honors with 12 points, while Dave Weimer and Doug DeNero added seven markers apiece. Curry, who converted seven free throws into eight attempts, paced the Union club with 13 points.

Easy Trick For Tyger Star

Here's a parlor trick you might try in some spare moment. Holding a ball in each hand is no easy stunt, but Gene Miller, forward on Coach Vern Hoffman's Mansfield high quintet, doesn't seem to mind.

Babe Dahlgren's Best Fielder, But Figures Fail To Prove It

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK—(INS)—Some forgotten sage once remarked that "figures don't lie"; to which an equally erudite hombre replied, "true; but they can be mighty deceiving sometimes."

And for figures that can be mighty deceiving we call your attention to the official American league averages released today.

These disclose, for instance, that Babe Dahlgren of the Yankees, had the worst fielding average of any regular first baseman in the American league last season.

This is the same Dahlgren that every ball player and baseball fan in the country knows is the greatest fielder since Hal Chase. The averages say that McQuinn of the Browns and Greenberg of the Tigers—tied with a .993 mark—were the best fielders in the league.

* * *

What the figures fail to disclose, however, is that Dahlgren drew errors stopping balls that some of the other players could not have reached. We recall that Stuffy McInnis—a great first baseman in his day—went through one season with only one error—but that was at the close of his career when he couldn't get off a dime.

* * *

On the other hand, the figures say the Yanks, with a team average of .978 and only 126 errors, were the best fielders in the league, a fact which everyone knows without averages. Behind them in order came the White Sox, Red Sox, Indians, Browns, Tigers, Senators and Athletics.

Topping the second basemen in the figures was that old smooth artist, Charley Gehringer of the Tigers, whose .977 mark was one point better than Doerr of the Red Sox and ten better than the sensational Gordon of the Yanks.

Ken Keltner of the Indians topped the third sackers with .974, followed by Red Rolfe of the Yanks with .958 and Frank Crosetti of the Yanks led the shortstops with .968, making only 26 errors in 809 chances.

The figures don't lie when they reveal that Bill Dickey, the Yankee master maskman, is the best catcher in the league. Bill had only seven errors in 635 chances for a .989 average.

Several pitchers had perfect fielding averages but top honors must go to Al Milnar of the Indians who accepted 43 chances without a miscue.

Need Victories To Obtain Tie

Electrics Face Shelley Chocolates, Blue Goose Meets Yuncker Sports at Tyger Lair Tonight.

ANYTHING can happen in basketball . . . and does, sometimes. Take the City Class A league, for instance. Tonight's games at Mansfield high school can throw the race into a four-way deadlock. As there are only four clubs in the circuit, it means that every team would share the lead.

This may not happen, but you'll have to admit that it's possible. It all depends on what the Westinghouse Electrics and Blue Goose Sohioans accomplish tonight.

* * *

If the Sohioans, who meet the defending champion Yuncker Sports at 7:30 p. m., win, and the Westies do likewise in the following game with the Shelley's Chocolates, the four-way tie will result.

* * *

The Blue Goose entry faces a difficult task. Compared to the giant Sports, the Sohioans are midgets, and the height advantage to be held by the Yuncker quintet may prove too much for the Oils to overcome.

But the Blue Goose team has Tom Farrell, no midget himself, and the lanky center should give the Sohioans a portion of the rebounds. If the Sohioans have their eyes on the bucket, the Sports' height will not be important as they can really pour 'em in when they're "on," offensively speaking.

* * *

The Westinghouse - Shelley meeting promises the leaguegoers plenty of excitement tonight.

* * *

Coach Hank Richards' Electrics gave the Sports all the trouble that they care to engage in one night, and came within one point of trimming the 1938-39 champions.

The Chocolates proved their spunk last week by coming from behind to outpoint the Blue Goose entry.

Rex, Augustine Clubs In Fight For League Van

Winner of Tonight's Game at Friendly House to Gain Undisputed Lead.

The Rex Billiards or Augustine Canfield Oils will head the Senior league after tonight's play at the Friendly House.

Tied for first place at the conclusion of the second week of play, the Billiards and Canfields will tangle in the headline game on tonight's card.

* * *

The Oils, led by Jim Heiser, George Bosko and Mike Augustine, defeated the Isaly Dairys, 25 to 22, last week, while the Rex Billiards, paced by Tony Brucato, won over the Moose, 28 to 23.

* * *

Moose lodge and Daley Cafes will meet in the first game at 6:45 p. m., and the Raemelton Farm and Isaly Dairys will tangle in the middle contest.

Ritz Bowlers Hit 2882 In City League

A 2882 TOTAL by the Ritz Nite club held the spotlight in the City Class A league at the Meder alleys last night.

The Ritz club collected scores of 906, 940 and 1026 as it annexed two victories at the expense of Funston's All-Stars. Dale Cleckner came through with a 629. A poor 159 game kept him from a greater total. He finished with a 242.

* * *

Shooting a 617, Harold Geiger led the Ingram-Martin Oldsmobiles to a 2801 series and a pair of wins over the Pontiacs, paced by Brig Young's 601. The Pontiacs hit 2756.

* * *

Pete Linster won individual scoring laurels with a 631 as the Lutz Lumbers compiled a 2781 series, which was good for two wins over the Greystone Nite club. Lutz contributed a 614 and Garrison a 605.

* * *

Clubs Share Lead In Class 'A' Cage Loop

Mayflower, First Methodist Teams Add Second Wins In Church League.

Mayflower's defending champions, and the First Methodist cagers today are deadlocked in first place in the Church Class A league title race following last night's contests at the 'Y.'

* * *

First Methodist, led by Fogle and Sites, who tallied 12 points apiece, smothered First Lutheran, 45 to 17, for its second straight win, while Mayflower added its second victim by beating the Park Avenue Baptist club, 28 to 17.

* * *

In the other tussle, St. John's Evangelical quintet chalked up its first triumph by handing Central Methodist a 30 to 25 defeat.

Mayflower ran into the most trouble last night. The Baptist club, also after its second win, hopped into a 3-2 lead in the opening frame, and was still ahead, 13 to 12, at the rest period.

But the defending titlists outscored their rivals, 8 to 1, in the third period to take a lead they held until the final gun. Russell was high for the winners with eight tallies. Harper collected five points for the Baptist.

* * *

The First Methodist team had little trouble in handing First Lutheran its second setback. The winners gained a 9-5 advantage in the first quarter and were never headed. First Methodist led, 29 to 6 at halftime.

* * *

St. John's also gained the lead in the early minutes against Central Methodist. The victors led, 18 to 10, at the intermission. Aton was high-point man with 12 points, while Davis paced the winners with 10 markers.

Mules are not being used in Europe's two wars. Mechanized forces have replaced them. There's something to be said, after all, for being behind the times.

Snowstorms halt Russian troops —headline. The blitzkrieg has turned into a blizzardkrieg.

Those Loch Ness fishermen who were always seeing the sea serpent certainly have capable rivals in those Norwegians who are always hearing a big sea battle.

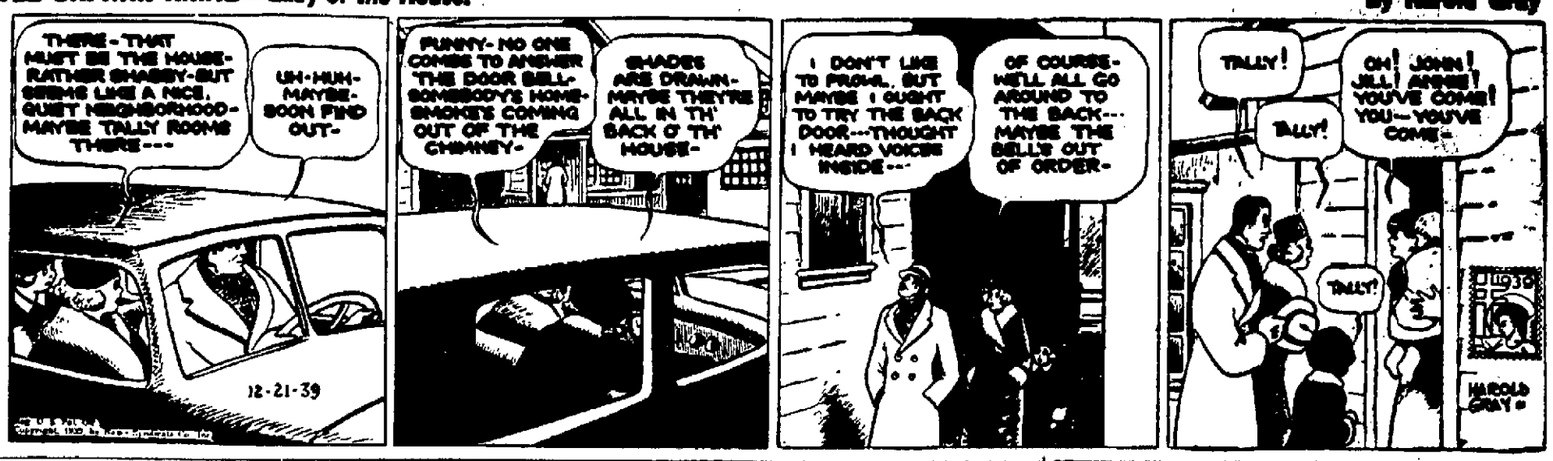
Judging by the length of time it took those movie producers to produce "Gone With the Wind," had they themselves fought the Civil war we'd still be in it.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Lady of the House. By Harold Gray



THERE - THAT MUST BE THE HOUSE- RATHER SHABBY-BUT SEEMS LIKE A NICE, QUIET NEIGHBORHOOD- MAYBE TALLY ROOMS THERE--- UH-HUH- MAYBE- SOON FIND OUT-
12-21-39
FUNNY- NO ONE COMES TO ANSWER THE DOOR BELL- SOMEBODY'S HOME- SMOKE'S COMING OUT OF THE CHIMNEY-
SHADES ARE DRAWN- MAYBE THEY'RE ALL IN TH' BACK O' TH' HOUSE-
I DON'T LIKE TO PROWL, BUT MAYBE I OUGHT TO TRY THE BACK DOOR---THOUGHT I HEARD VOICES INSIDE---
OF COURSE- WE'LL ALL GO AROUND TO THE BACK--- MAYBE THE BELL'S OUT OF ORDER-TALLY!
TALLY!
OH! JOHN! JILL! ANNIE! YOU'VE COME! YOU— YOU'VE COME-
TALLY!

IT'S ME, DEAR
HELP. HELP

THE NEBBS—It's Just Too Bad. By Sol Hess

MR NEBB, MY NAME IS STRAFFORD AND I'VE BEEN INFORMED OF THE PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION OF THE POWER PILL. I UNDERSTAND YOU HAVE A HALF INTEREST IN IT AND I'M INSTRUCTED BY A SYNDICATE TO OFFER YOU AND PARTNER $100,000 FOR IT
OH, NO, MR. STRAFFORD I'M NOT INTERESTED!
12 21
IF I SUBMIT AN OFFER OF $300,000 WOULD THAT BE INTERESTING TO YOU?
THIS IS SO SUDDEN - YOU'LL HAVE TO GIVE ME TIME TO THINK IT OVER 300,000 BUCKS! AND HALF OF IT WOULD BE MINE! - DAME FORTUNE JUST STAYS LONG ENOUGH WITH ME TO TICKLE ME IN THE RIBS, SLAP ME ON THE BACK AND THEN SHE LEAVES ME FLAT!!
WHERE - OH, WHERE CAN THAT IMPORTANT LITTLE SCRAP OF PAPER BE? RUDY MUST FIND HIS HALF OF THE FORMULA - BUT WHERE?

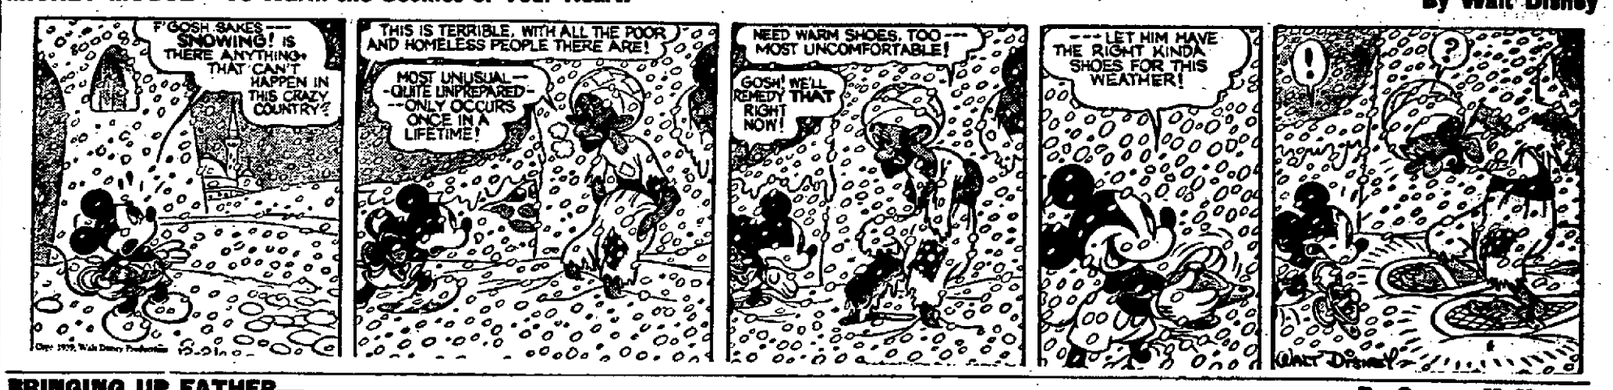
WHAT'S HAPPENING, KALLA?
THE ROBOTS ARE ATTACKING THE MONSTER - WE'VE WON, BRICK - WE'VE WON!
I'VE GOT IT! THE METAL MONSTER WILL SAVE ITSELF!
BUT— HOW?
MEANWHILE, FAR BELOW—
HOW? BY SETTING IT IN OPERATION! FIRST, WE MUST MAKE IT RISE FROM THE CRADLE—
THEY DASH TO THE CONTROL ROOM
-THEN I WILL CAUSE IT TO BRUSH OFF THE SWARMS OF ROBOT CLINGING TO IT!

MICKEY MOUSE—To Warm the Cockles of Your Heart. By Walt Disney



F'GOSH SAKES — SNOWING! IS THERE ANYTHING THAT CAN'T HAPPEN IN THIS CRAZY COUNTRY?
THIS IS TERRIBLE, WITH ALL THE POOR AND HOMELESS PEOPLE THERE ARE!
MOST UNUSUAL— -QUITE UNPREPARED- --ONLY OCCURS ONCE IN A LIFETIME!
NEED WARM SHOES, TOO--- MOST UNCOMFORTABLE!
GOSH! WE'LL REMEDY THAT RIGHT NOW!

MARKET TACKS ON PLUS SIGNS, VOLUME HIGHER

Brokers Encouraged by Survey Showing Huge Increase in Bank Clearings.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market continued to do better today without working up any great amount of steam.

Issues tacking on plus signs included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Studebaker, American Telephone, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin and Consolidated Edison. Bonds were quiet and moderately higher in spots.

Some traders saw bullish indications in the fact volume recently has picked up on rising flurries and dwindled in selling periods.

Brokers reported year-end tax offerings were being completed and reinvestment purchasing beginning to act as a bolstering influence.

Encouraging to the optimistic ranks was the Dun & Bradstreet survey estimating bank clearings for 22 cities in the week ended yesterday climbed to the best levels of the year to date.

A further reflection of the fall industrial bulge was seen in figures disclosing iron ore shipments south from Lake Superior ports, in the season just ended, more than doubled last year's tonnage. The total of 46,782,984 tons compared with 20,016,872 a year ago.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Stamp Auction—A stamp auction will feature a meeting of the Mansfield Philatelic society at 7:30 p. m. today at Southern hotel.

Plans Meeting—Courtney Camp No. 3505, Modern Woodmen of America, will hold a regular meeting at 7:30 p. m. Friday night at the Eagles hall.

Fined for Conduct — Pleading guilty in municipal court today to a charge of disorderly conduct, James Scales, transient, was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested yesterday by police who accused him of panhandling.

Open Saturday — The county auditor's office at the courthouse will be open Saturday afternoon for the sale of dog tags, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today. Dog Warden William Miller will be in charge of the tag sales.

Report Bogus Check — Police were called yesterday by employes at the Montgomery Ward company store after they had cashed a $20 check for a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Helen Baker. They said the bank reported that the woman had "no account."

Woman Fined—Dorothy Jackson, colored, of 228 North Franklin avenue, was fined $25 when she pleaded guilty in municipal court today to a charge of disorderly conduct. Peter Rosiska, 298 Fourth avenue, who police said was arrested in an East Sixth street rooming house last night, forfeited a $25 bond for non-appearance on the same charge.

AP SELECTS 10 BEST STORIES OF PAST 10 YEARS

March 1, 1932, and closed with the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann on April 3, 1936. In those four years the Lindbergh case was seldom off the front page.

Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., first-born of the famous aviator, was 19 months old when he was snatched from his crib near Hopewell. His body was found weeks later, within five miles of the home. Carpenter Hauptmann, 35, married, a father and a paroled German convict who had entered the United States illegally, was arrested Sept. 10, 1934, after passing a ransom note. He was convicted early in 1935 and died in the chair a year later.

Edward Abdicates (1936)

A love story for the ages was written when Edward VIII, by the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and the British dominions beyond the seas, king, defender of the faith, Emperor of India, abdicated to marry the "woman I love."

C. E. Honce.

She was Wallis Warfield of Baltimore. The royal romance, which had England in a dither, culminated at the altar in June of 1937 at Monts, France. The man who became the Duke of Windsor after being king, was a royal exile until the war called him home and then put him back in France in the uniform of his country.

Germany Rises (1933)

On January 30, 1933, Adolf Hitler was called to the office of chancellor of Germany by aging President Hindenburg.

From that very day, the man who was to become Der Fuehrer began discarding provisions of the treaty of Versailles; in 1937 he repudiated before the Reichstag what little remained of that tattered war document.

In six years Hitler rearmed Germany, reorganized the Reich's economy, remilitarized the Rhineland, purged his own flock, absorbed Austria, dismembered Czechoslavackia built a West wall against France, achieved a diplomatic triumph at Munich, and then dared again the might of Britain and France at arms.

The Quints Are Born (1934)

Marie, Emilie, Cecile, Annette and Yvonne Dionne are five little girls now more than five years of age and worth pretty close to a million dollars. They earned all that money and at least a million words of notice by being born quintuplets near Callander, Ontario, on May 28, 1934.

A steady and ever-interested eye has been kept on them since the day Country Doctor Allan R. Dafoe brought them safely into the world and to their present normal, healthy state. Their upkeep runs to $26,400 a year. This year they greeted Le Roi and La Reine from far off England.

Prohibition Is Ended (1933)

For 14 years this nation tried prohibition as a way of life and then discarded its 18th amendment, on Dec. 5, 1933, after a turbulent period of enforcement.

The end of prohibition saw the toppling of vast vice empires founded on the illicit liquor traffic and dominated by gangsters. But it did not seen the end of the prohibition movement. Since repeal, the drys, fighting through local option elections and in state legislatures, have voted liquor out of 10,000 towns and villages—one-fourth of all in the nation. Recent polls have indicated the drys could round up a 36 per cent vote.

Huey Long Slain (1935)

Senator Huey P. Long, the spectacular figure who had Louisiana in his pocket, Mississippi in his orbit, and the whole United States in his eye, met in 1935 the fate against which he thought he was well guarded.

The Kingfish, who called every man a king and whose share-the-wealth program was one of the first to attract public attention, fell before the pistol of Dr. Carl Austin Weiss at Baton Rouge, La., on Sept. 8, 1935, and died two days later.

Long is dead, but share-the-wealth programs still go on. Two were defeated in state elections this fall.

Hindenburg Explodes (1937)

Any decade is filled with horrors—floods, tidal waves, earthquakes, explosions, epidemics; 1930-40 was no exception. Probably the explosion of the dirigible Hindenburg on May 6, 1937, as it was about to tie up at Lakehurst, N. J., was as concentrated a horror as the decade produced. Important people were aboard. The trip over the Atlantic had been without incident. The 97 passengers were prepared to alight.

Then, in the calm of a May evening, the unexpected occurred. Thirty-six dead. Cameramen caught the flash.

Dust Causes Upheaval (1934)

In 1849 California was invaded by Americans seeking gold. In 1934 the state received another wave of immigration when drought turned sections of the Middle West into a "dust bowl."

The drought of 1934 and of later years caused a great economic and social upheaval, changing the lives of thousands of Americans and creating problems that still seek solution.

Meanwhile, in the Middle West, reforestation seeks to return the one-time dust bowl to cultivation.

to go around in such bad weather without an umbrella, and dedicates to him this useful instrument of protection."

Authorized sources contended Germany was justified in sinking British North sea fishing trawlers, asserting that whatever their fishing activities, they were radio-equipped and served primarily as lookouts to report German aircraft and warships approaching British waters.

(Great Britain has begun mobilizing airplanes and warships to defend the fishing boats, 35 of which have been attacked in three days.)

Spee's Captain Carries Secrets to His Grave.

BUENOS AIRES — (AP) — The secrets of Capt. Hans Langsdorff's thoughts in the hours of darkness before he died by his own hand will go with him to the grave today.

The commander, who obeyed orders of Adolf Hitler in destroying the German raider Admiral Graf Spee Sunday rather than renew a battle with British cruisers outside Montevideo, wrote a farewell letter to the German embassy just before committing suicide Tuesday night.

An Argentine naval commission investigating his death recommended that the letter be impounded and withheld from the public.

The slight body of the 45-year-old commander lay in state at the arsenal today in a cubicle no larger than his cabin aboard the Admiral Graf Spee, which the British chased into Montevideo after a 14-hour battle Dec. 13.

A burial plot was selected on the "German" cemetery, separated from British graves by a fence erected during the World war. Three hundred of the Admiral Graf Spee's crew were assigned to participate in funeral services this evening.

RELATIVE STRICKEN

GALION — Rachel Greer has been called to Lima by the death of her sister, Mrs. Sylvania Brewbaker, 75, who died at her home there Tuesday. Mrs. Helen Bily of Galion is a niece of the deceased. Funeral services were held at Lima this afternoon.

CITY'S HOLIDAY BUSINESS SOARS

"the greatest in the history of the Mansfield office."

But Mansfield was not alone in the business upswing. The "buying fever" reflecting improved business and industrial conditions spread throughout the state with holiday sales reported up from five to 30 per cent.

Cleveland, Youngstown, Cincinnati and Toledo post offices broke one-day records yesterday and Akron, Columbus and Dayton reported more pieces of mail than last year.

State Treasurer Don Ebright reported prepaid sales tax stamp sales of $1,125,785 for the week ending Dec. 9, compared with $934,864 in the corresponding period last year, with Richland county tax receipts totaling $13,837.

At the same time State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson announced that checks totaling $2,868,475 were mailed to 125,699 aged persons on the old age pension rolls in Ohio. Ferguson's staff worked overtime to get this month's checks out early so they would be in the hands of pensioners before Christmas.

No German officer would comment, however, on Capt. Langsdorff's death.

The survivors, including nine women stewardesses and two boys, will be kept at Ellis Island until they have been examined by immigration officials.

They appeared relieved and happy to be ashore and laughed as they described how they scuttled the third largest vessel in the German merchant marine.

More serious was Third Officer Henry Lampe, 27, who said the two crew members lost when the others put out in 22 lifeboats apparently thought the alarm was only the signal for another "scuttle drill."

German Freighter Stays In Florida Port.

FT. LAUDERDALE Fla. —(U.P.) The new German freighter Arauca today prepared for an indefinite sojourn in a Florida harbor—held there by the double deterrent of a British Cruiser hovering off the three-mile limit and an attachment against her.

There seemed little doubt that the United States would extend the Arauca the welcome due a peaceful merchantman. Preliminary investigation by port authorities revealed that the Arauca was neither armed nor carrying war materials and had not violated United States neutrality laws.

A complete check of the 4,354-ton freighter's manifest was being made today after Capt. Frederick Stengler, who ran his ship into Port Everglades harbor near here to escape the British cruiser Orion, had formally applied for entry into the port.

CITY'S ELATED OVER RAILROAD STATION 'GIFT'

passenger station committee, is extremely happy that the city is to have a new station. Since 1934 we have exerted every effort toward securing more adequate facilities in keeping with an otherwise beautiful and attractice comrunity."

Other members of the organization who expressed their sentiments today on the "gift" were:

C. L. Van Derau, manager of manufacturing of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and president of the Chamber of Commerce—"The value of this improement to the city can't be overestimated. It is a project that has been on Mansfield's 'must list' for the past 20 years, and hundreds of citizens have worked on it at one time or another. The population of the city has approximately doubled in the past 20 years, but the old station and surrounding remained the same; it didn't keep pace with the city. The improvements at the station were decided upon early last spring, but circumstances made it impossible for railroad officials to make the announcement until now, and we all appreciate the fact that they have kept their promise."

George L. Draffan, chairman of the passenger station committee of the Chamber of Commerce—"Of course we are elated, because we received so much more than we anticipated. At one time we told the railroad company that if we couldn't have a new station, we would be satisfied with the much-needed platform improvements, and we are more than gratified that the company went the whole way in the matter of a building as well.

Clyde K. Smaltz, chairman of the transportation committee of the Chamber of Commerce—"Pennsylvania railroad officials have kept faith with Mansfield and the improved facilities will be substantial evidence of good will. 'Go Forward With Mansfield' has been a slogan of advancement and the whole citizenship has had a part in bringing a long-dreamed-about improvement to realization."

L. E. Osborne, manager of manufacturing and engineering of the Westinghouse company—"The Pennsylvania passenger station will be a much needed improvement. When strangers arrive in the city they get their first impression of it from the railroad stations, and none of them in Mansfield tell the story of the city as I have found it. The underpass and the platform improvement for west bound traffic are tremendously important in the whole project."

James M. Hill, president of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company—"I think manufacturers and business men who have many out of town business people coming into the city throughout the year will be particularly pleased at the announcement of a new station. We've been reluctant to have them come in by train because of the impression they received on entering the town, and consequently many have come in by plane or by auto when they preferred to come by train."

Mayor Claude M. Hunter—"The new station is the most wonderful Christmas gift that Mansfield could have received. And I hope it shows up the old B. and O. station to such an extent that we have another new station before many months. I hope, too, that the improvement is merely the forerunner of safety programs at all unguarded crossing in the city."

Paul M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, and former president of the Chamber of Commerce—"Mansfield should be happy and proud that our industrial picture made it possible for the Pennsylvania railroad company to show us this consideration at this time."

Paul R. Tappan, president of Tappan Stove company and member of the Chamber of Commerce committee—"Aside from the fact that the new station and the platform improvements mean so much to the town, we were particularly gratified when we were told that the new station in Mansfield represents the first money the company has spent on staion improvements anywhere since it has had funds available for that use. This probably is due to the fact that the need was greater here, and greater effort to secure it was put forth by the community."

defense troops are near there or have driven back Russian vanguards in that vicinity, they conflict sharply with Soviet statements that the Russians had pushed 80 miles west from the border.)

The Finnish communique said that defense troops which had stopped the Russian thrust had captured "much booty" in their counter-offensive, including three tanks, 30 army trucks and considerable quantities of machine-guns and ammunition.

The Finns said the Russians had lost heavily in men and tanks in the isthmus front, the heel of the Russian hand, but still were pounding Finnish positions.

Finns Bomb Part of Soviet Rail Line.

HELSINKI — (INS) — Resorting to a ruse that apparently outwitted the Russian high command, Finnish airmen bombed a section of the Leningrad-Murmansk railway today in retaliation against Soviet aerial attacks on southern Finland.

The reported bombing foray followed assertions that Finnish forces on the north central front wiped out two Russian divisions near Suomussalmi, killing nearly 20,000 Soviet troops.

Reports reaching Helsinki via Norway said the Finns used seven Russian planes, captured undamaged when their Soviet pilots surrendered, to attack the vital rail link between Russia's far northern forces and one of their chief supply bases.

Santa and the TALKING DOLL

by SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Eric, the son of Lightning, and Leezen, a doll, have broken the spell of an evil king who makes friends quarrel. Leezen has run away from the King of Westphalia although she was made for him by the fairies.

CHAPTER 16
Not Yet Free.

OUTSIDE the castle of King Chatter, Eric and Leezen could see nothing moving. Guardsmen slept leaning against the walls. The great gate glanged shut after them.

"Now we must be free," said Eric.

"Not yet," said a small voice. It was the Queen of Fairies again. "But at least you have broken the spell of King Chatter for ten years. Now he will sleep and the world will have peace. But Leezen, you almost failed in the test. You wept.

For three months of each year you must join the winter winds and go crying around people's roof tops to remind them of their lost friends."

"Oo-o-o," said Leezen

"And the other nine months?" asked Eric.

"Those she may spend with you," said the Queen. "But there is still one more task for you. You must find a suitable queen for the King of Westphalia to take the place of Leezen. When that is done, you may go where you wish."

* * *

A QUEEN FOR THE KING

The fairy queen disappeared into the air. Eric and Leezen looked at each other. Said Eric, "Let us hurry to Westphalia. I want to see Elsa whom I brought from Toyland."

So they sat on the back of the white fox and he leaped off across the snow covered hills, through great, silent pine woods and finally when their hands were getting cold they saw the lighted castle ahead of them.

They rushed down the slope through the castle gate and into the great hall where the King was sitting with Elsa near him. She was knitting and humming a song.

"Oh, children!" said Elsa so pleased her face shone.

"Ah, friends!" shouted the King.

So Eric and Leezen told them their adventures but they didn't tell the most important part: that they must find a Queen for the King. That they kept secret.

But Eric had a plan. "Sire," he said to the King, "your subjects are peaceful. It is getting near Christmas up in Santa's Toyland. It would warm your heart to see him. Come with us there."

The great gate clanged shut after them . . . .

"Why, fine!" said the King. But just then dawn began to turn the sky pale blue. Leezen's eyelids fluttered, she smiled and then she stiffened and became only a doll.

"Poor little doll," said Eric and he stroked her yellow curls Then he turned to the King. "I'll hold Leezen and ride on the fox's back. You ride your fine, white horse and Elsa can ride with you"

OFF TO TOYLAND

So they had a big breakfast of hot cakes and chocolate and sweet, golden figs. And then they started out. Eric peered ahead, anxiously looking for those mountains he had seen on the way to the King's castle. They were the mountains that only grow higher when people climb them. But he didn't see them So he told the King. The King laughed and said, "They are only there for young, hasty people like you. Once you have passed them you never see them again."

So the party rode on as lightly as the wind. By dusk they hadn't sighted Toyland yet, and the King and Elsa were growing very cold. So Eric took out his flute and played a lovely, teasing tune and suddenly the air was filled with slim, gray ladies whose long hair streamed behind them.

"How far to Toyland?" shouted Eric. "Ma-a-any miles," the gray fairies whispered. "But we are the winds that blow ships home. We will carry you." So they picked up the whole party and whisked them through the air and put them all down in front of the Toyshop.

"Now to surprise Santa," said Eric. But in his heart he was thinking, "Oh, where will we find a queen for the King so that Leezen and I may go to the land beyond the sunset?"

TOMORROW: The five princesses.

Man Whose Auto Kills Deer Finds It Can Cost Dear.

(By Associated Press)

SEATTLE—A Wisconsin insurance company inquired whether the state of Washington would assume liability for a salesman's automobile damaged by a wild deer on a public highway. Answered Assistant Attorney General Browder Brown:

"Dear Sirs: It is the constant intent of the state of Washington to make these (state) highways safe for motorists and also for pedestrians, among which latter class our wild deer would be numbered.

"Without any further information than that given in your letter we would conclude that if your salesman was assaulted by one of our wild deer the incident would naturally fall under the heading of regrettable mistakes.

"On the other hand, it may be that the state may have a claim against your salesman for inflicting bodily damage and injuries on one of our wild deer and causing it to suffer excruciating pains and also subjecting it to great distress and agony both in mind and body."

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Older boys and girls will find two good books for vacation reading in the display this week. Both deal with the European areas so common in the daily news but the stories have taken place in the past. Either book would make an interesting junior high book report.

EAGLE'S QUEST, by Charlotte Lederer—Lodoska at the age of fifteen took an important part in a service to her country. Her father was the Polish ambassador to Vienna in the 18th century and needed her help to return the son of an exiled Hungarian king. Needless to say this is a story of thrilling adventure and romance

SINGING TREE, by Kate Seredy—Those who have enjoyed THE GOOD MASTER will welcome this continuation of that story. This is a more serious book because it is 1914 at the outbreak of the World war. Kate and Jancsi help to manage the small Hungarian farm in the absence of their fathers. The beautiful illustrations of Kate Seredy appear again.

PLAN BIG PARTY

Westinghouse Workers to Hold Program for Children.

One of the biggest Christmas parties of the year will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday when the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company stages its first party for the children of employes

Between 400 and 500 children will attend the party given for children between the ages of 5 and 10 years, in the big display room on the fifth floor of the Fourth street building.

R. O. Richards, of the personnel department, is in charge of the affair and has arranged for a miniature circus, special pictures, a Santa Claus, candy and gifts Boy Scouts will assist in looking after the children.

Woman Claims 8-2268th of Farm 25 Acres In Extent.

OMAHA, Neb. —(AP)—Mrs. Viola Glad, an heir to the late Anna Ganz, filed suit here for determination of her share in a 25-acre farm. She claims an 8-2268th interest.

"It's as simple as daylight," explained her attorney, George Evans. "Mrs. Glade has a 1-252nd interest when Mrs. Ganz died and then she inherited one-third of one-seventh of one-half interest of an aunt who died later."

The Ottoman empire was for years without a standing army until in 1330 one was made up of forced levies of Christian children. The troops became known as Janissaries.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1939.

You might begin explaining to the younger generation what leap year used to mean.

Announcement that federal income tax blanks will be available shortly after the first of the year serves as a discordant note in the holiday symphony.

Toledo schools are to be re-opened January 2, after having been closed since November 23, as an economy measure—and by next year the school board may do its Christmas chopping earlier.

After Many Years of Effort

MANSFIELD'S biggest local story of the year-end is the announcement of the Pennsylvania railroad's intention to proceed immediately in modernizing and enlarging its passenger station here.

Coming in the form of a Christmas gift to Mansfield, with $75,000 definitely allocated for this specific use, this long-awaited improvement will bring to final culmination a vision that has been in the minds of many Mansfielders for fully forty years—extending into a new generation of civic leaders and Chamber of Commerce administration, but never having been lost sight of or dropped from the agenda of municipal essentials.

Earlier thought on the subject of railroad stations was directed along "union depot" lines and around 1910 there was an appearance of progress toward such an accomplishment, but changing conditions made that project impracticable and later financial difficulties encountered by all railroads necessitated retrenchment policies which prevented expenditures for station improvements, however badly they were needed.

The attitude of Pennsylvania railroad officials has at all times been one of sincere interest in Mansfield, and appreciation of Mansfield's increasing passenger and freight business. This interest and appreciation now takes tangible form in allotment of the first available surplus to the station-modernizing project announced yesterday by General Superintendent R. C. Miller.

There are indications, also, that officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad are nearing the point of action in the long-contemplated replacement of their present dilapidated Mansfield passenger station with a creditable modern building.

If, as now appears not unlikely, 1940 turns out to be the year in which both of Mansfield's obsolete railroad passenger stations are brought into accord, in appearance and facilities, with civic progress along industrial and commercial lines, the coming year will be a memorable one in this city's history.

Relief Is Not Political Business

LEAST important of all, from the public's viewpoint, is whether relief is administered by Democrats or Republicans, which seems to have been the principal haggling point of the past several weeks.

If the advent of a Republican city administration would have meant the discharge of five capable relief workers in order to provide jobs for that many Republicans, then the change made to county administration was fully justified. But if the change was inspired by no better motive than to continue the tenure of five Democratic incumbents, merely because they are Democrats, then the action would smack of outmoded political maneuvering.

Of all public business, the administration of relief to needy persons and families in the community should be as far removed from partisan politics as possible. Among the most serious indictments of the present federal administration is that based on the flagrant way in which politics has been played in connection with relief jobs.

What the people who meet the high costs of relief really want is assurance that all worthy relief cases in city and county are taken care of in a capable and sympathetic way, that chiselers and wastrals are barred from relief rolls, and that the administration costs are no higher than justified by actual work being done.

And, judged by past performance, members of the Richland county board of commissioners are inclined to scrutinize expenditures of public funds quite carefully.

One Commander's Decision

THE STARK TRAGEDY of war is seldom better illustrated than by the suicide yesterday of Captain Langsdorff, commander of the Graf Spee, German pocket battleship which was scuttled by its own crew just off the South American coast last Sunday afternoon.

It has been said that it was Adolf Hitler, himself, who ordered destruction of the magnificent battleship, in preference to internment or meeting the British warships awaiting its attempt to leave Montevideo.

"I am happy that all my men are safe," said Captain Langsdorff, when this was assured, yet even then he had made the choice of self-inflicted death rather than continuance of life under the stigma of what many would regard as defeat.

War fits so poorly into the scheme of civilized living that it is impossible to reconcile its happenings with the normal processes of thinking. Saving, or prolonging, human lives is an almost universal instinct, but all this is reversed by war, during which emphasis is placed on killing or maiming as many "enemies" as possible. Life, it appears, is the most valuable thing in the world—or the most worthless, depending on incidents of the moment.

It sometimes seems that men of the Hitler and Stalin type—and other makers of aggressive war—are ill-fitted to the human forms in which they have been permitted by Nature to appear on earth.

Red Propaganda Aired

AMERICANS listening eastward on the short wave these nights may hear such gems as this, directed by the Moscow radio against the Swedish social democrats:

"Slaves and hirelings of capitalists and imperialistic interests have dared to abuse the glorious Red army, which with such unselfishness has lent its help to the democratic Finnish republic (the fake government set up by Stalin across the Russian border).

"These so-called socialists have sunk so deep that their newspaper has reached the level of the worst Paris boulevard papers. But the whole world and even the Swedish people will realize the unselfish work of the Soviet Union and her army."

Whereupon the American listener, and no doubt the Swedish listener, yawns and tunes in to something interesting.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—New York's theatrical program this season has already spread out into such an odd pattern of pathological war cases, political horse-play, anti-Nazi farces, and dramatized biography that one can scarcely hazard at this writing a guess as to where it is going.

There is already evidence of good "line writing," and in the case of Mr. George S. Kaufman and Mr. Moss Hart, the well known pillagers of temples, an extraordinarily high talent for buffoonery that is both wittily and acrimoniously elegant.

* * *

BUT I am not so sure that 1939-'40 is going to come up to the sister it left behind. The Clair Boothe Luce of "Margin for Error" is not the Clair Boothe Luce of "The Women" or "Kiss the Boys Good-bye." "Margin for Error" is Miss Boothe's design for ridiculing the Nazis. Last year she ridiculed those who sought a suitable Scarlett O'Hara for "Gone" and despite its witty lines, that comedy was a success because the play itself was so funny that it could not escape success.

Ridiculing the Nazis is, by comparison, only slap-stick. You can put lines into any comedian's mouth and permit him to dominate the stooge. This is what happens in "Margin for Error." The wicked daggers which Miss Boothe threw in her previous comedies have all been exchanged for custard pies. The audience laughs, and the caricature of an American-German bund leader is made to appear ridiculous. But the triumph here is a triumph for the town bully over the village idiot. It is no contest. What Miss Boothe's objective was I am, of course, unable to say. If she wanted loud, and sometimes pretty obvious, comedy, she succeeded. If, on the other hand, she really wanted to discredit Nazism, she missed the mark. The play is funny only because of the pies she hurls at her hand-made stooges. I personally regret that she didn't begin with two equal forces—that is to say, with her Nazi representatives the intellectual equals of her anti-Nazis—and then calmly let the Nazis disinfect themselves through the inferiority of their own logic. I think this would have become a magnificent play and convincing propaganda as well.

* * *

FOR real fun, give me "The Man Who Came to Dinner." I think it's the funniest play I ever saw. Perhaps some of its enjoyment traces to the knowledge that Alexander Woollcott is being caricatured. If you know Woollcott or have a sympathetic knowledge of his activities, you simply have to laugh because you are aware that Woollcott, in life, is capable of almost everything Monty Wooley, his impersonator, does on the stage.

But even if you had never heard of Woollcott you would still be completely enthralled by its altogether honest values as comedy. You never saw such incredible situations, and yet they are situations in which you can believe. That, to me, is the qualifying essential. As insane as it is, somehow, someway, you know that it not only can, but that it has happened.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Dec. 21, 1919.

Postoffice was kept open morning and afternoon to expedite mailing gifts.

Dr. E. E. Jacobs, new president of Ashland college, preached at First Brethren church.

Automobiles driven by Joseph Bein and C. O. Taylor collided at corner of Fourth and Mulberry streets.

Ferrets were disappearing from Mansfield and vicinity, because of new law prohibiting their use in hunting.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Dec. 21, 1934.

Girls from Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company gave their annual Christmas party for residents of the Richland county infirmary.

Mrs. O. E. Swanson, Euclid avenue, entertained at a surprise birthday dinner party for her daughter, Miss Senoma Swanson.

Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Lodde were in Ft. Wayne, Ind., visiting relatives.

TODAY IN HISTORY

'Neutral' Preference for Finland

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Little Finland is at war and under the neutrality act we should hide our head under our wing and not see too much that might start our pulses beating. But what are we doing?

We are helping the Finns fight the Russians as surely as we are alive. Our actions are masked only by the gossamer thread of procedure. As soon as they were attacked by the Russians the Finns "recognized" the existence of a war, although without such ritualistic formality as that of the British and French in declaring war on Germany for invading Poland.

Yet we as a nation do not recognize the war. If we did, the neutrality law would go into effect and all its rigors would be invoked against Finland just as much as against Russia.

Already our ships are barred from going to Finland because of the combat zones at the mouth of the North Sea in connection with the other part of the European war, which we formally recognize. But if the neutrality act is not invoked, credit can go. And it is going.

* * *

$10,000,000 Loan.

JESSE JONES, as chairman of the federal loan agencies, has announced that the Export-Import bank will make $10,000,000 available to Finland. The president has approved it, of course, as no such phenomenal action would be taken unless he were willing.

It is specifically stated that the money will be used to help rid the United States of agricultural surpluses and to make other "civilian" supplies available to Finland. But to Finland a dollar's worth of food for civilians is worth almost as much as a dollar's worth of bullets. Every dollar we send to feed Finnish civilians will release a Finnish dollar to buy munitions. Even more important, the act in itself is as stimulating as a pot of coffee to a chilled soldier in a snowdrift.

* * *

MOREOVER, Finland evidently has found supplies of munitions and fighting equipment closer at hand. Fairly well-substantiated reports indicate Italian and English planes are being delivered to Finland. She can get guns from Sweden and munitions for guns she has already bought there, provided Sweden can spare them from her own emergency mobilization.

* * *

Getting Supplies Through.

THERE still remains the difficulty of getting any supplies at all to Finland. The Russian blockade of Finland may be fairly effective, but even the mildest co-operation from Norway and Sweden would aid in putting American supplies in the hands of Finnish civilians.

Now why all this sentimental attachment? Two dozen years ago most Americans probably knew vaguely that Finns lived some place up toward the North Pole, along with Santa Claus and the Eskimos. Even the World war brought them only a few notches closer to our vision. Then came Paavo Nurmi and the debts. Nurmi ran circles around our American athletes for a couple of years. We learned about Finland from him.

Then all the other nations defaulted on the debts, but not Finland. Two times a year she sent from her meagre resources a sum running to about $250,000. Even when war was in her lap she made $234,693 available for the December 15 payment. Of this, $74,000 was principal, the rest interest. And the president will recommend to congress that this sum, too, should be given back to Finland for civilian purposes.

The whole Finnish debt to the United States was about $9,000,000. Her credit is good for another $10,000,000 at least.

Listen, World!

"Give Us a Break!" Cries Youth.

(Presenting Gladys E. Riedy, Allentown, Pa., Columnist of the Day.)

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THESE modern youngsters—you've wondered about them, haven't you? Puzzled over their seeming coldness . . . stormed at their audacity . . . doubted their honesty and decency. There's nothing new about that doubt; it's as old as human nature. Always the Older Generation has looked with perplexed eyes at the Younger . . . failing to see that they shared the same flesh, the same dream, the same right to trust and respect! And today young Gladys Riedy tells them so with a vengeance.

It's a brave and honest letter and never more timely than in these days when we are remembering that other Youth who dared defy the smugness and stupidity of His time.

Listen, Oldsters—

"I'm getting fed up with your criticism of us Youngsters. We're accused of being selfish, irresponsible, immoral. But that isn't any more true of us in the mass than it is true of you, our elders. Youth, on the whole, is clean and courageous — with a far better grasp of current problems and a keener sense of responsibility toward those problems than many a parent.

It's easy for a stupid, pompous, lazy-minded adult, without a spark of imagination, to criticize a bewildered kid and get a big hand for doing so. But if you really wanted to help, instead of just heckle us, you'd cut out the lectures and study us instead. We're not monsters. We're different from the young people of your youth because everything is different. But we're as anxious to be fine men and women as you were . . . and facing a lot harder job to do it.

If you'd only trust us as we trust you . . . confide in us as we confide in you . . . respect our efforts as we respect yours . . . and admit your bewilderment as we admit ours . . . this would be a very different world.

Nations are at war, millions are jobless, the world's in a panic. We are called irresponsible because we don't sit around and groan and gripe the way you do. But what good would it do to add despair to despair?

Why should we carry the torch? Any coward can surrender to gloom . . . any fat-head can say we're going to the dogs. It takes far more courage and intelligence to laugh than to whine. Where would the world be if youth couldn't laugh? We may not know the answers but if we keep our hearts high, we can perhaps find them. Maybe if you did a little less lecturing and a little more laughing, good times would be really "round the corner."

You say we have no religion—simply because the religion we have doesn't always fit your creed. But there are many ways to pray and worship God. When we fight hypocrisy and hate dirty deals and despise sickly sentimentality, we are praying—we are worshipping God.

God must have loved laughter and beauty and kindness or He would never have made them. Sometimes it seems He is the only one on our side. You didn't sympathize with Him either when He came in the form of a Youth. You suspected the worst when He, too, dared to ask questions and defy conventions.

You accuse us of hanging around beer joints and cheap night clubs. Who made those joints? Who cashes in on our restlessness with endless kinds of vicious amusements? You, our elders.

YOU TALK ABOUT ALL THE THINGS YOU GIVE US AND ACCUSE US OF INGRATITUDE. BUT WE DON'T WANT JUST THINGS. WE WANT—YOU. GIVE US YOURSELVES AND YOUR FAITH. LET US BE MORE THAN YOUR CHILDREN. LET US BE YOUR PARTNERS.

You, not we, are making the breach between us. We are reaching out our hands across that breach. Won't you reach, too? Perhaps we could save the world, together, if you would."

GLADYS E. RIEDY
158 E South St.
Allentown, Pa.

A brave plea, youngster—and an honest challenge. And here's one older who backs you with every ounce of her faith and love and joyous admiration. They don't come any better than Young America 1939 model!

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—How the U. S. army is leaning over backward to help supply the Finns with military materials was illustrated the other day, when a colonel at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., a chemical warfare post, telephoned to the General Tire and Rubber company in Akron, O.

"It's all right," he said, "if you want to turn over those gas masks you are making for us to the Finnish government. They need them in a hurry, and we can wait."

The Finns will pay for the masks, but they will get masks originally ordered for the U. S. army. The army also is permitting other material, ordered but not needed immediately, to be sold to the Finns.

However, one weapon which the Finns will not get, but which they need badly, is the latest type of U. S. anti-aircraft gun.

Finnish Minister Procope has asked the help of the war department in securing these guns, but the war department is bound by law not to sell them. There is no way to make an exception without an act of congress.

The army's anti-aircraft gun is rated about the finest in the world, though it has been learned since the war started that the German gun is just as good, if not of similar design. There is suspicion in some quarters that the German gun is patterned after the U. S. gun, though how the Nazis got the plans remains a mystery.

* * *

Overdrawn Neutrality.

LAST week the Riggs National bank in Washington notified a member of the British embassy staff that he was nine dollars overdrawn and that he would have to pay up immediately or else the bank would be in violation of the Neutrality act.

The act prohibits extension of credits to belligerent governments on penalty of $50,000 fine and five years in jail, and the bank feared it might incur this penalty if it extended nine dollars in credit to the British secretary.

This scrupulous observance of the law is the general policy of banks in Washington. For instance, should an attache of the French embassy deposit his salary check with a local bank, the bank now refuses to credit him with that money until about three weeks later, when it has had time to receive the money from Paris.

If the bank credited the deposit to the diplomat's account immediately, it would be extending credit to him, thereby violating the Neutrality act.

All of which indicates how strictly the revised neutrality law is being enforced.

* * *

White House Reception.

Highlights of the recent Diplomatic Reception, where ambassadors of warring countries stood almost shoulder to shoulder to greet the President:

WARMEST greeting Roosevelt gave to any diplomat went to Finnish Minister Procope; coldest to the Russian and German envoys . . . When the Finnish minister shook hands, Roosevelt felt his muscle, patted him on the back, pulled him down (the president was seated) and whispered in his ear . . With Russian Ambassador Oumansky, the president was dignified and formal. All he said was "How do you do?" His greeting to Hans Thomsen, charge d'affaires of the German embassy, was similar.

Frau Thomsen, in pale pink chiffon, trimmed with crystals, was one of the most attractive women present . . . The Russian delegation looked strained, as if passing through a tough ordeal . . . Ambassador Oumansky spent most of his time talking to Latvian Minister Bilmanis, whose country has yielded to the Soviet.

Simply dripping with pearls was Mrs. Joe Davies, breakfast food heiress and wife of the recently resigned ambassador to Belgium . . . Madame Secretary Perkins went in on the arm of bachelor Attorney General Frank Murphy . . . This was the first reception at which the president remained seated. Previously he has leaned against a bank of ferns, in which was concealed a solid support . . . Shaking hands with 700 people is always a strain, especially when the president had to stand for two hours. At this reception he looked much more relaxed.

* * *

McNutt and FDR.

WISEACRES in both parties are due for a big disappointment in Roosevelt's Jackson day dinner speech, January 8.

Contrary to their predictions, he intends to say nothing about his third term intentions. Instead he plans a speech devoted to foreign affairs. The date for his third term statement is still undecided and far in the future—perhaps mid-summer.

Sure to be the most severely jarred by Roosevelt's silence is the McNutt camp.

The Indianian's managers are so confident that the president will take himself out of the running that they are preparing an elaborate publicity campaign to be launched a few days after the dinner. Leaflets, posters and other political literature, done in snappy red, white and blue, are now pouring from the presses in readiness for the big splurge.

Master minds of the drive are two Omaha publicity and advertising aces, Leo Bozell and Morris Jacobs—who played a behind-the-scenes role in the furious utility battle a few years ago against the famous holding company "death sentence."

The Bozell-Jacobs firm long has been active in the utility field. They got their start ten years ago with a successful publicity drive to elect J. E. Davidson, of the Nebraska Power company, as president of the National Electric Light association. They have a branch office in Indianapolis, where the McNutt publicity is being handled.

Politically, the two partners are on opposite sides of the fence. Jacobs is a Republican and a contributor to the party. Bozell is a Democrat and contributes to that party. He also is an old friend of McNutt's and when the latter visited Omaha, entertained him lavishly.

Bozell is giving personal attention to the McNutt literature, and has the Indianapolis branch send all proofs to him in Omaha before final printing.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

DAVID LAWRENCE is doing a fast job of printing and distributing hearings of the National Labor Relations board investigation—at no expense to the committee . . . Republican radioist William Hard met Democrat Jim Farley in the corridors of the state department. Hard, who is as short and scrawny as Farley is tall and stalwart, clasped Farley's hand and said, "I've been trying to grow up to look as big and healthy as you are." . . . Cordell Hull, himself a lawyer, answered a question in press conference by saying, "I suggest you talk with our lawyers; they always like to talk." . . . Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, is about to have his portrait painted by E. Valderrama, a Cuban. . . . Ten Brazilian air corps officers arrived last month for a tour of U. S. air bases. This month Brazil has sent three more officers to study artillery equipment and practices. . . . The threat of a congressional investigation has had a miraculous effect on the navy press bureau. It now goes out of its way to be accommodating.

The Youngest

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

HE WILL put up with me, but he does not like my whiskers. He is utterly genuine in his disgust, and does not hesitate to speak his mind. He does not stand in awe of anything or anybody. In fact he does not stand at all, being not yet twelve weeks old.

Kind friends who want to flatter me say that we look like each other. So far as I can see, our main similarity is that each has a bald spot on his head. But his is at the rear, quite out of sight. He has worn it there by eleven weeks of sleep on a firm mattress without a pillow. Mine isn't entirely out of sight, and I didn't get mine by sleeping.

His eyes are big and dark and round when he's awake. Mine are big and dark when I'm dead for sleep. His cheeks are round and dimpled, and his wide toothless smile bewitches nearly every woman who sees him. My cheeks are weathered like a piece of saddle leather, and my smile has no bewitchment for the ladies. He crows and people cluster round and like to hear it. Not so with me. I'm warned that crowing isn't nice, sounds egotistic—though both of us are merely being natural.

He makes more work than any child we have, he takes more care, more washing. Yet his mother folds white birds-eye oblongs by the dozen and murmurs peculiar lingo into his pink ear, and they both are happy.

He's good. He eats and sleeps and grows—that's all he does. He will not be a baby very long. And when he's grown, and has an infant son, and people say the youngest looks like him, perhaps he'll swell with pride, as I do now, and hold the baby close against his cheek, to feel the firm young softness, and get the fragrant breath of him—and then the kid will squirm and twist and howl, because his dad has whiskers.

TELL BILL GOODBYE + + + + + +

By MARIE BLIZARD

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

She went through the door when Fabienne had disappeared and found herself in a long corridor. Doors opened to the right and to the left. She looked into them, not finding her, and came to a closed door. She put her head to it. Inside the sound of muffled crying was very low.

Ellen turned the knob softly.

Fabienne lay on her bed, the folds of her blue bridesmaid gown, spread about her, her corn-silk hair spread over the pillow. She looked like a doll that had been thrown there. Only her shoulders moved, rising and falling with deep sobs.

Ellen moved across the room and drew the sobbing girl toward her.

"Too much excitement for our invalid," she said, offering her handkerchief. Fabienne's square of priceless lace was a wet crumbled ball.

Fabienne dabbed at her swollen eyes, not meeting Ellen's eyes. "That's it, I guess," she said. "Lovely, wasn't it?"

"Lovely," Ellen said, casting her eye about and seeing the bath beyond. "Come wash your eyes in cold water. I always cry at weddings, too. But you've got to make an appearance."

"I—I can't, Ellen.

"Oh, yes, you can. Just a few minutes and then you can slip away for good. If you don't, I'll believe you are ill and send Bill in to you."

Fabienne sat up then. "No, I don't want Bill in here today," Fabienne said firmly.

She followed Ellen into the bathroom and allowed her to put cold compresses on her eyes. "You're right, Ellen, one always does cry at weddings," she said tentatively, wondering if Ellen had guessed why she was crying.

For once Ellen had not known.

She said, "I've met your Nicky. He was very nice to me. Took me in hand at once."

"Nicky is nice. He's sweet. Did you have some champagne?"

"He was getting it for me, but I came to look for you. You and I'll both have some." Nicky was probably giving HER champagne to one of the glamorous girls. Briefly, Ellen wished that she had a little glamor; or was a few inches taller and very light and gay and knew the right laughing things to say to young men who said they remembered her.

"There's food in the dining room if you care for some. We're having a little family dinner at Pierre's," Fabienne said, restored to some of her former aplomb. She patted powder over the fading pink of her nose. "Horrible things, family dinners."

* * *

Fabienne brushed her hair, set her dutch cap back on her head and gave a last look in the mirror.

The girls were about to go out when the door opened and Gertrude, in yellow lace with sable bands, came in, fluttering, animated and beautiful, as usual, exclaiming, "Fab! You simply can't disappear this way. Darling, I've asked your Dr. Mallory—he's simply divine, my dear!—to come to dinner with us."

"Mother, you didn't!" Fabienne said angrily.

Ellen's heart went down into her shoes. Poor Bill, she thought.

Fabienne, with the look of anger still on her face, whirled to Ellen. 'Then you must come, too," she said firmly. "There'll be Nicky for me and you for Bill."

Ellen's heart beat more unevenly than it ever had before, but she said calmly, "I'd love to."

* * *

The wedding reception was over. Dick and his bride departed amid the usual confetti, rice and congratulations a little after eight In less than a half hour, the crush of guests had thinned out and now they were only ten in the flower-filled drawing room. Already porters were clearing away the debris and Gertrude, with a long gold coat over her yellow lace gown, was still organizing.

"We've only two cars. How shall we divide ourselves" she asked vaguely, knowing that she'd managed the whole thing. "Mr. Haviland, will you take Mark and Edna. I'll take Fabienne and Nicky in my car. There's room for five, you know, so I can take Miss—er Chapman and Dr. Mallory. Oh, dear, that leaves Mr. and Mrs. McHenry. Can you manage another two, Mr. Haviland"

Nicky said, "My roadster's downstairs. I can take Miss Chapman. You wouldn't mind, would you?" he said, turning to her. "You've both a warm coat and a hat."

"Of course not," Ellen agreed.

"That's splendid, Nicky, darling. I'll seat you next to Fabienne at the table. Well, I guess that fixes everything," she said, leading the way to the elevator.

"It certainly does," Fabienne said begrudgingly. Mother'd fixed everything so that she'd have to sit beside Bill all the way uptown while poor Ellen had to ride with Nicky, who probably wouldn't know what to say to her

She pulled the hood of her fur-lined wrap over her head and glared at the chauffeur's back, prepared to glare all the way to their destination,

"How're you feeling," Bill said professionally.

"Swell, she said glumly.

"Some show," he tried again.

"Wasn't it? The Seymours always give big shows."

"Scared, probably."

"I wouldn't blame you. It's a long chance you take"

"Is that why you aren't married Bill?"

"Me? No, I take chances. If I thought I had anything to offer the girl I—I—But I'm only a poor struggling surgeon."

"Maybe it wouldn't matter—to her, Bill."

"Maybe. I hope not Someday, when she gives me some indication of how she feels, I'm going to find out."

* * *

Fabienne's fingers played with the pearl-beaded bag in her lap and she wished that she could paint a permanent smile on her face with a lipstick. It was all a little too much for her to sit beside Bill tonight and talk about Ellen, to hear him say that one day he was going to ask her to marry him. That's what it all amounted to.

"Well, good luck when you do!" she said, managing a bright, impersonal smile.

Her mother broke off her conversation with the father of the bride. "What are you two talking about?" she asked.

"The price of rubber in Puerto Rico," her daughter said, without any rudeness in her tone.

"Really? What a waste of time. I always find surgeons the most interesting conversationalists. You must come to dinner with us next week, Dr. Mallory. Fabienne, remind me to find what evening we are not engaged and get the doctor's telephone number."

"Bill isn't social, mother. He's too hard working to fit his social program to ours. Aren't you, Bill?"

Bill's face had gone suddenly cool. He was hurt by the bright acidity in her voice, and puzzled by it. He said nothing.

"Of course he's hard working," said Gertrude. All bright, interesting young men are hard working, but I mean to see more of him."

Nicky, a block away, was saying, "I'll let you out and then park the car."

"I'll come with you," Ellen answered, "if you'd like to have me."

"Like to? Say, I wish we didn't have to go to this dinner. You're the first interesting girl I've talked to since I can remember."

"Fabienne is interesting," Ellen said quickly. "She's not only the prettiest girl I've ever seen, but she is a most interesting, talented, charming and sincere person.'

"You bet!" he agreed enthusiastically. "Guess young Mallory appreciates her—her attractions, eh?"

"Bill? Yes, he does He likes her very much, but she—she—I mean they're just good friends." Nicky mustn't get the idea that Fabienne and Bill were romantic about each other, however Bill felt. It wouldn't be fair to Nicky to let him believe anything like that.

* * *

Anyway, she wasn't sure how Fabienne felt about any man. She'd said she was fond of Nicky. And in spite of her one protestation that she would not marry Nicky, Ellen couldn't see how she could resist him.

Also, it was odd that Fabienne said Nicky wasn't interested in anything but flying, polo and hunting. Nicky'd been talking to her enthusiastically about the Bartlett tobacco business. He'd answered all her questions with eagerness.

They parked the car and walked back to the hotel.

"I might stay around for a few days," he said as they went into the brightly lighted lobby. "Any chance of seeing you again?"

There it was again—that swift brush of pink that made her dark eyes sparkle. "I—I don't know."

"I like to talk to you. What are you doing tomorrow night?"

Still she didn't say anything She couldn't very well have a date with Fabienne's beau.

"You have some mighty interesting ideas about marketing. You could help me if you wanted to How about it?"

If she could help him—that was different. She said, "In that case, I'd be delighted"

"I'll pick you up for dinner about 8. I'm sure glad you came to this shindig"

They passed the florist's booth. "Wait a minute. You ought to have some flowers," Nicky told her.

She caught his arm and shook her head. "No, please," she said.

"Why not?"

She could only smile and continue to shake her head. What would Fabienne think if she came in with Nicky and wore flowers only Nicky could have bought?

"Some other time," she told him.

"All right," he said, giving in. "You ought to have a special kind of flower. White violets, or purple-black pansies. Something demure like yourself."

* * *

Bill and Fabienne looked up when Ellen and Nicky came in.

In a low voice, Fabienne said, "I never knew Ellen was so pretty before."

"Didn't you?" Bill said. "I've seen Ellen's face when it looked like an angel's.'

She looked full at him then, thinking of how his face looked to her. "I know," she said, complete renunciation in her tone.

Gertrude said, "There you are, children. We thought we'd go on to a night club after dinner. Weddings let one down so. What do you think?"

Two sets of aunts and uncles beamed and said they thought it a fine idea. Neither Fabienne and Ellen nor Nicky and Bill said anything. Their silence was heavy.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

SMALL CARD CLUBS HAVE MANY AFFAIRS

YESTERDAY saw meetings of many small card clubs for dinners, luncheons, games and gift exchanges. Mrs. Nick Blocker, Longview avenue, opened her home last night for members of the Do-Be-There club to play Michigan, and she awarded prizes to Mrs. Ray Cline, Mrs. May Bookman, Mrs. Gilbert Mast and Mrs. Adam Schmidt.

When the hostess served luncheon the table was decorated with a small tree and green and red appointments. Gifts were exchanged, and arrangements were made to meet again with Mrs. Philip Kipp, Lexington avenue road, Jan. 3.

* * *

A 12:30 o'clock luncheon was served to members of the Virgador club yesterday when Mrs. Charles Hershner, 50 South Adams street, entertained with a Christmas exchange. There were seven members and four guests, Mrs. P. E. Harrison, Mrs. Adeline Boor, Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis, Greenwich, and Mark Alan White, present. Games were played, and prizes were presented to Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Boor. Arrangements were made to meet Jan. 10, but no hostess was named.

* * *

After the luncheon at the Evergreens members of the Bide-A-Wee club went to the home of Miss Clara White on Boughton avenue for a gift exchange and cards yesterday. The next club meeting will be held Jan. 3 with Mrs. C. R. Ladd on Grant street.

* * *

Miss Vernice Davis, Raymond avenue, entertained members of the Octagonio club last night when plans were made to hold a post-Christmas dance Dec. 29 at the Y. W. C. A. Members had a gift exchange, and Chinese checkers were played. The winners were the Misses Agnes Cansler, Carrie Lindsay and Sue Dora Black. Refreshments were served. The next regular meeting will be an event of Jan. 2 at the Cansler home on Second street.

Thelma Reed Has Function At Club For Children

Miss Thelma Reed entertained last night with a Christmas party for her private piano pupils at the Women's Club. She was assisted by the Misses Frances Bein, Doris Mann and Ruth Maffett. Games and contests were played, and Miss Mary Nanich won the door prize. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

HAVE DINNER.

Members of the Willing Workers society of the Little Washington Congregational church met for a chicken dinner and Christmas party yesterday at the church. Gifts were exchanged, and Mrs. Howard Stone read the scriptures. Quilts and comforts were worked on during the afternoon, and Mrs. Irvin Steele was welcomed into membership. The group will meet again next Wednesday.

* * *

ACCEPT NEW MEMBER.

A new member, Mrs. Viola Hammett, was accepted into the Gether-Gether club last evening during the meeting at the home of Mrs. Bertha Malaska, 204 Grant street. Five hundred was played and the group exchanged Christmas gifts. The hostess served supper to her guests. Another meeting, Jan. 3, will be with Mrs. Myrta Marines, 153 South Diamond street.

* * *

HAVE DINNER.

Members of the DeLuxe Pinochle club met for dinner last night at the Hiller tea room, and games followed with prizes going to Mrs. C. H. Eller, Mrs. Joseph Amato, and Mrs. O. O. Stickler. The next meeting will be held Jan. 3 with Mrs. Eller, 91 East Second street.

Park Auxiliary Has Annual Social

The annual Christmas party and gift exchange of the Liberty Park auxiliary was held last night at the park with members participating in contests and games. The park club room was decorated with lighted Christmas trees, tall tapers, and a Santa Claus and reindeer on the mantel.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lloyd Hughes, Mrs. Peter Freese, Mrs. William Metz, Mrs. Joe Shibinski, Mrs. John Kovahick, Mrs. Isaac Liecy, Mrs. Frank Faugl, Mrs. Christiana White, Mrs. Christ Geisel, Mrs. Frances Curatti, Mrs. Gordon Watson, Mrs. Earl Stutz, Mrs. Henry Stauffer and Mrs. George Hostetter.

Holiday appointments were used on the table at which luncheon was served by Mrs. Pearl Fike, Mrs. John Shansky, Mrs. Stephen Konves and Mrs. Frances McKenna. The net meeting will be held at the club house Jan. 3.

December Dinner Meeting Held By Prospect Group

Individual favors of holly leaves, cranberries and popped corn made into corsages were placed on the long tables last night when members of the Prospect Park association met for their annual Christmas covered-dish dinner party and cards. Large floral centerpieces were used as additional decorations, and the pine boughs over all the windows of the pavilion, and a trimmed Christmas tree completed the setting.

Arrangements were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Flegal, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kramer, and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stickler. Five hundred winners were Mrs. Virgil Farst and W. F. Shupp, and bridge prizes went to Mrs. Clyde Kessell and Floyd Smith.

The committee for the Jan. 17 meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Linkhart, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brubaker, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Schooley, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Peyton and Mr. and Mrs. Shupp.

St. John's Guild Names Offices At Dinner Meet

New officers to serve during the coming year were elected Wednesday during the business meeting which followed a covered-dish dinner for 55 members of St. John's Guild in the church parlors.

Mrs. Gladys Matthes is the newly-elected president, with the following officers to assist her: Mrs. Katherine Klinger, vice president; Mrs. Henry Nickolaus, secretary; Mrs. Louise Klein, assistant secretary; Mrs. Malvina Damlos, financial secretary; Mrs. Clara Schneider, treasurer.

During the program, which was opened with prayer by Rev. Paul H. Saleste, Mrs. Olive Garver was in charge of the scripture reading, followed by a trumpet duet by Mary Margaret Young and Jimmy Smith, accompanied by Katherine Schaller. Miss Esther Lantz presented a group of her drama pupils as a feature of the program which was arranged by Mrs. Florence Schaller.

Another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 3, at which time the new officers will be installed. This meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Mary Phillipon, Mrs. Katherine Klinger, Mrs. Emma Kolb and Mrs. Rose Leonard.

* * *

DORCAS SOCIETY MEETS.

Members of the Dorcas Young Women's Missionary society of St. Luke's Lutheran church met Wednesday evening at the church with Miss Thelma Bowman in charge of the devotional hour. The lesson was conducted by Miss Shirley Engelsrud, and the group sang Christmas carols. Hostesses for the meeting were Miss Eleanor Ford and Miss Louise Baer.

Little Flower Club Members At Luncheon Table

Present Play Before Members Of Teachers-Wives Club

THE holiday meeting of the Teachers-Wives club was held last night at the Central Methodist church when the play "Christmas at the Poor House" was presented by a group of members and guests under the direction of Mrs. Deborah Wood. A gift exchange followed. The refreshment table, at which Mrs. W. L. Miller and Mrs. L. C. Baumgardner presided, was decorated with pine and bittersweet.

Guests were Mrs. Charles Boyce, Mrs. Boyd Robinson, Mrs. Robert Cassidy, Mrs. William Bishop, Mrs. Milo Hieber, Mrs. A. D. McKenzie, Mrs. Ray Turner and Mrs. W. H. Gifford.

GIVE PAPERS.

Mrs. Richard Uhl, Penn avenue, entertained the Queen Esthers and Standard Bearers of the First Methodist church at her home yesterday when Miss Ethel Hughes gave the paper "North of the Rio Grande." Miss Evelyn Corwin read a paper on Harwood school for girls, and Miss Sarah Jane Diehl read another paper on Isabel Thornton college. A social hour followed and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Jan. 17, but the place will be announced later.

Fete Bride-Elect At Supper Party Thursday Night

The Misses Margaret and Frances Strickler feted Miss Sarabell Kramer with a supper-bridge party at their home, 465 Park avenue west, last evening. Miss Emily Burns, who will be one of Miss Kramer's bridesmaids when she becomes the bride of John Van-Wagner of Shelby on New Year day, presided at the buffet supper table, which was lighted with tall red tapers and decorated with holiday appointments. The guests were seated at three small tables, which also were decorated in keeping with the festive season.

Bridge was the evening's diversion, and prizes were won by Miss Burns and the honoree. The guests gave Miss Kramer a shower of bathroom gifts, and the hostesses presented her with a wedding gift.

Another party is being given for the bride-elect this evening by Miss Eleanor Clingan, Mrs. Norman E. Leonard and Mrs. Eugene Linham at the latter's home on Glenwood boulevard. Mrs. Robert Glassner of Milwaukee, Wis., who was formerly Miss Jean Gorman of this city, was in attendance at the party last night.

COVERED-DISH.

Mrs. Paul Harter, Mrs. Mary Ackerman and Mrs. J. Lyle Smith, presided as hostesses for a covered-dish dinner and gift exchange for members of the Second district of First Lutheran church at the church Wednesday. There were 29 members and six guests present. The president, Mrs. E. W. McCready, conducted the devotions and Bernard Simmons sang several numbers, accompanied at the piano by his mother, Mrs. Wade Simmons. Another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 17, with the hostesses to be announced later.

* * *

NO SESSION.

Members of Auxiliary No. 100, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War did not meet last night at the Memorial building, but officers announced this morning that installation will be held at the hall Jan. 3.

ANNUAL PROGRAM.

The parents of the Carpenter school children were the guests at the program presented last night at the school by all the children of the school. The entire faculty of the school assisted with the presentation, of songs, dances and recitations. This was the regular P. T. A. meeting.

PRE-HOLIDAY EVENTS CROWD LAST FEW DAYS

WITH Christmas only a few days away now, all entertaining has settled down to pre-holiday parties and exchanges of gifts. Members of Pi Alpha Gamma sorority were the guests of Miss Sarah Catherine Wallace, Park avenue west, last night for a Christmas party. Mrs. Van L. Stevenson was associate hostess, and Miss Margaret Black conducted the games. Gifts were exchanged when members played a modified form of musical chairs. Various games were played, and prizes were won by Miss Kathryn E. Culp, Miss Isabel Mosey, Miss Virginia Wagner, Miss Margaret Evans and Miss Florence White. At the close of play refreshments were served at small tables. Ice cream in various yuletide molds and cake decorated with frosting holly were served.

* * *

A formal progressive dinner party entertained a group of girls employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company office last night. The first course was served at the home of Miss Dorothy Leech followed by the main course at the home of Miss Louise Enderle. Miss Eleanor Star and Miss Dorothy Arter assisted.

BUSINESS MEETING HELD.

Routine business was transacted at the meeting of the Miriam Rebekah lodge Wednesday in the I. O. O. F. hall. Lois Addlesberger was in charge. Another meeting, Jan. 3, will feature a covered-dish dinner for the Sewing circle at noon, and installation of officers of the lodge.

Candlelight Service Held By Church Group

Mrs. J. W. Waddell, East Fourth street, opened her home to members of the Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church, Wednesday, with Mrs. W. F. Miller as associate hostess.

Mrs. W. E. Shane, president, conducted a short business session, and Mrs. A. E. Courtney was in charge of devotions. Mrs. Waddell gave the program of the afternoon, entitled, "A Candlelight Service," in which she reviewed outstanding events in the lives of deceased missionaries, as well as members of the organization. As she told of each member she lighted a candle in her memory. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next event will be a meeting at the home of Mrs. George Rusk, West First street, with Mrs. W. E. Shane as associate.

Being Forty Not Bad

By MME. QUI VIVE

Women are inclined to make a big to-do about birthdays. They hate the idea of getting out of finger touch with their youth, but they can't do anything about ii. It's silly for them to rave and protest. After all, the forty girl has beauty qualities that the twenty girls can't hope to have. They may not consist of the flawless complexion and the reedy shape, but they are compelling, nevertheless.

The youngsters want to look pretty; the forties know that prettiness is a drug on the market and that it doesn't get one places. Youth may be self conscious or arrogant. Middle age is more at ease, having found out that we're all cut out of pretty much the same kind of cloth. Graciousness, charming manners, amiability are cultivated because, after all, those are the qualities that are a power in love and friendship. Beautiful complexions, ambrosial locks, svelte figures attract the eye but they aren't likely to quicken heartbeats. They're nice to have, we all want them; but if we haven't got them there are compensations.

We are judged by behavior rather than looks and after you have lived for forty years you'll find that out. Nice manners are an expression of a kindly spirit and mental culture. They mean something.

Youth is every ready to shout its opinions; middle age, if it has learned anything, keeps its mouth shut and smiles. Arguments are a total loss. Take no chance of getting a persimmon face by getting into conflicts.

Older women are more tranquil than the twenty girls; better company. Having sized up the male of the species the older women give the men a chance to brag about themselves, a diversion the gents find refreshing and delightful. Mrs. Forty isn't likely to be greatly impressed with the superior sex and so the superior sex finds her companionable, easy to get along with. She doesn't expect as much attention as does the little darling who has just slipped out of her teens. She keeps a rein on her emotions, doesn't fly off the handle if the escort is late for his appointment. What's the use? Men are like that.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I realized something which put all conjectures about her mischief out of my mind for the time being, although I knew I should return to the consideration of them. Olina had taken but a step from the telephone, and then had "frozen" as might a pointer, and was standing motionless.

I knew instinctively what was the matter. With the light behind her, she had seen that my door was ajar, and was wondering whether I had heard her conversation.

With infinite pains, taking care that no rustle betrayed me, I turned my face almost into my pillow, and then waited breathlessly for what would come next.

At last, after it seemed to me I should shriek with the suspense, she tip-toed along the hall and stopped in front of my door. Knocking ever so lightly, she whispered, "Mrs. Graham! Are you awake?"

I made no answer, but made my breathing rhythmic and a little on the heavy side. After an instant's pause she spoke again, this time in more audible tones.

"Mrs. Graham!"

I stirred myself and said sleepily:

"Who's there? What's the matter?"

"It is I, Olina, Mrs. Graham," she responded, and with a surprised little exclamation, I put out my hand and switched on the reading lamp by my couch. Then I sat up and blinked sleepily at her.

"Why, Olina child, what's the matter?" I asked solicitously. "Is your mother ill?"

"No, she's asleep," she answered, after she had shot a quick, surreptitious glance at me. "But I couldn't sleep because I have such a headache. And there isn't a single aspirin in the room. I came down to see if I could get some of you."

"There's a box right over on the desk there," I told her. "Take as many as you wish."

"Thank you," she returned, walking to the desk and extracting the pellets from the box. When she turned back to the door she said prettily:

"I am so sorry to have disturbed you."

"You haven't disturbed me in the least," I told her, improvising rapidly and suppressing a frantic desire to seize her shapely shoulders and shake out of her a confession of just what she was trying to do to Mary. "Mrs. Underwood is going to sleep in here tonight. She and her husband are in conference with my father now, and there are things we must discuss before we sleep. I knew if I undressed and went to bed, I wouldn't be able to awaken enough to talk or to listen intelligently, so I just dropped down on the couch. You really have done me a great service. I shall be able to keep awake now."

"I'm glad I'm of some use in the world," she said, and I thought I detected a note of bitterness beneath the light retort.

"Thank you so much for the tablets," she went on. "I'm sure I shall be able to sleep now. Good-night!"

"Good-night!" I answered, and as she went stealthily through the hall and into the rooms occupied by herself and her mother, I heard another door close at the far end of the corridor, and was not surprised to see Lillian appear almost immediately afterward.

She began to scold me almost as soon as she came through the door.

"What do you mean by not being in bed?" she demanded. "And you ready to drop in your tracks! You weren't waiting for me by any chance, were you?"

"No, I wasn't," I returned, smiling, "although I've just perjured myself by saying I was. I've been engaged in what you would call 'following a hunch,' and I caught up with it."

She looked at me searchingly.

"And I'll bet the right front hair on the cat's whisker that it has something to do with that hell cat, Olina," she said.

Nothing is wasted in the use of ivory. Scraps and shavings are hoarded and made into dust for polishing, India ink and even food.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Dec. 22.

A rather negligible day is presaged from certain planetary aspects that may not be interpreted as fortuitous. There are elements of petty strife, irritabilities, "grouches" and low spirits generally, both in business and in the home circle. However, it would be well to suppress such tendencies in association with employers and superiors, as they might provoke disagreeable situations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of moderate activity, with but little to lift affairs from the path of routine or dull mediocrity. This might be due to a disposition to be vexatious, irritable and not very congenial, owing largely to a morbid, depressed and introspective state of mind, or physical ills.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature, with warm impulses and sympathies and, as well, deep recesses of pessimism or melancholy.

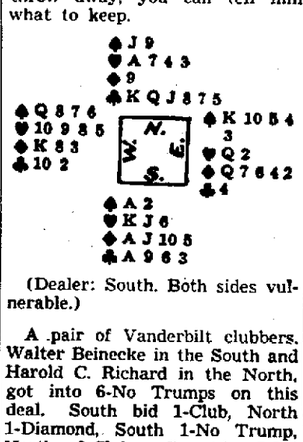
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SAYING WHAT TO HOLD

While the declarer is running his long suit at No Trump, you have to throw something away. You and your partner can gang up on him if you divide the work of protecting the other suits. By signaling what you are going to throw away, you can tell him what to keep.



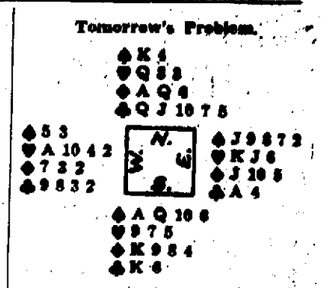
(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

A pair of Vanderbilt clubbers, Walter Beinecke in the South and Harold C. Richard in the North, got into 6-No Trumps on this deal. South bid 1-Club, North 1-Diamond, South 1-No Trump, North 3-Clubs, South 3-No Trumps, North 4-No Trumps, South 5-Spades, then North 6-No Trumps, the heart 10 being led to the queen and king.

Six consecutive clubs were run. On the second of these East had to discard and chose the diamond 2, indicating that he was going to throw that suit away in order to protect something else and asking his parner to save protection in diamonds. His next four discards were the spade 3 and three more diamonds.

West did not pay much attention to the insiginficant looking diamond 2 and, after his first two discards of the spade 6 and heart 5, he then discarded the diamond 3 and diamond 8, blanking his diamond king. Mr. Beinecke therefore was able to drop the diamond honors and make 7-No Trumps.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Against North's 3-No Trumps, why should East, after leading the diamond jack to the ace and taking the second club, then prefer a heart lead?

SOCIETY & CLUBS

SMALL CARD CLUBS HAVE MANY AFFAIRS

YESTERDAY saw meetings of many small card clubs for dinners, luncheons, games and gift exchanges. Mrs. Nick Blocker, Longview avenue, opened her home last night for members of the Do-Be-There club to play Michigan, and she awarded prizes to Mrs. Ray Cline, Mrs. May Bookman, Mrs. Gilbert Mast and Mrs. Adam Schmidt.

When the hostess served luncheon the table was decorated with a small tree and green and red appointments. Gifts were exchanged, and arrangements were made to meet again with Mrs. Philip Kipp, Lexington avenue road, Jan. 3.

* * *

A 12:30 o'clock luncheon was served to members of the Virgador club yesterday when Mrs. Charles Hershner, 50 South Adams street, entertained with a Christmas exchange. There were seven members and four guests, Mrs. P. E. Harrison, Mrs. Adeline Boor, Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis, Greenwich, and Mark Alan White, present. Games were played and prizes were presented to Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Boor. Arrangements were made to meet Jan. 10, but no hostess was named.

* * *

After the luncheon at the Evergreens members of the Bide-A-Wee club went to the home of Miss Clara White on Boughton avenue for a gift exchange and cards yesterday. The next club meeting will be held Jan. 3 with Mrs. C. R. Ladd on Grant street.

* * *

Miss Vernice Davis, Raymond avenue, entertained members of the Octagonio club last night when plans were made to hold a post-Christmas dance Dec. 29 at the Y. W. C. A. Members had a gift exchange, and Chinese checkers were played. The winners were the Misses Agnes Cansler, Carrie Lindsay and Sue Dora Black. Refreshments were served. The next regular meeting will be an event of Jan. 2 at the Cansler home on Second street.

Thelma Reed Has Function At Club For Children

Miss Thelma Reed entertained last night with a Christmas party for her private piano pupils at the Women's Club. She was assisted by the Misses Frances Bein, Doris Mann and Ruth Maffett. Games and contests were played, and Miss Mary Nanich won the door prize. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

HAVE DINNER.

Members of the Willing Workers society of the Little Washington Congregational church met for a chicken dinner and Christmas party yesterday at the church. Gifts were exchanged, and Mrs. Howard Stone read the scriptures. Quilts and comforts were worked on during the afternoon, and Mrs. Irvin Steele was welcomed into membership. The group will meet again next Wednesday.

* * *

ACCEPT NEW MEMBER.

A new member, Mrs. Viola Hammett, was accepted into the Gether-Gether club last evening during the meeting at the home of Mrs. Bertha Malaska, 204 Grant street. Five hundred was played and the group exchanged Christmas gifts. The hostess served supper to her guests. Another meeting, Jan. 3, will be with Mrs. Myrta Marines, 153 South Diamond street.

* * *

HAVE DINNER.

Members of the DeLuxe Pinochle club met for dinner last night at the Hiller tea room, and games followed with prizes going to Mrs. C. H. Eller, Mrs. Joseph Amato, and Mrs. O. O. Stickler. The next meeting will be held Jan. 3 with Mrs. Eller, 91 East Second street.

Park Auxiliary Has Annual Social

The annual Christmas party and gift exchange of the Liberty Park auxiliary was held last night at the park with members participating in contests and games. The park club room was decorated with lighted Christmas trees, tall tapers, and a Santa Claus and reindeer on the mantel.

Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Lloyd Hughes, Mrs. Peter Freese, Mrs. William Metz, Mrs. Joe Shibinski, Mrs. John Kovahick, Mrs. Isaac Liecy, Mrs. Frank Faugl, Mrs. Christiana White, Mrs. Christ Geisel, Mrs. Frances Curatti, Mrs. Gordon Watson, Mrs. Earl Stutz, Mrs. Henry Stauffer and Mrs. George Hostetter.

Holiday appointments were used on the table at which luncheon was served by Mrs. Pearl Fike, Mrs. John Shansky, Mrs. Stephen Konves and Mrs. Frances McKenna. The net meeting will be held at the club house Jan. 3.

December Dinner Meeting Held By Prospect Group

Individual favors of holly leaves, cranberries and popped corn made into corsages were placed on the long tables last night when members of the Prospect Park association met for their annual Christmas covered-dish dinner party and cards. Large floral centerpieces were used as additional decorations, and the pine boughs over all the windows of the pavilion, and a trimmed Christmas tree completed the setting.

Arrangements were in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Claude M. Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Bender, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Flegal, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kramer, and Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Stickler. Five hundred winners were Mrs. Virgil Farst and W. F. Shupp, and bridge prizes went to Mrs. Clyde Kessell and Floyd Smith.

The committee for the Jan. 17 meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Linkhart, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brubaker, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Schooley, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Peyton and Mr. and Mrs. Shupp.

St. John's Guild Names Offices At Dinner Meet

New officers to serve during the coming year were elected Wednesday during the business meeting which followed a covered-dish dinner for 55 members of St. John's Guild in the church parlors.

Mrs. Gladys Matthes is the newly-elected president, with the following officers to assist her: Mrs. Katherine Klinger, vice president; Mrs. Henry Nickolaus, secretary; Mrs. Louise Klein, assistant secretary; Mrs. Malvina Damlos, financial secretary; Mrs. Clara Schneider, treasurer.

During the program, which was opened with prayer by Rev. Paul H. Saleste, Mrs. Olive Garver was in charge of the scripture reading, followed by a trumpet duet by Mary Margaret Young and Jimmy Smith, accompanied by Katherine Schaller. Miss Esther Lantz presented a group of her drama pupils as a feature of the program which was arranged by Mrs. Florence Schaller.

Another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 3, at which time the new officers will be installed. This meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Mary Phillipon, Mrs. Katherine Klinger, Mrs. Emma Kolb and Mrs. Rose Leonard.

* * *

DORCAS SOCIETY MEETS.

Members of the Dorcas Young Women's Missionary society of St. Luke's Lutheran church met Wednesday evening at the church with Miss Thelma Bowman in charge of the devotional hour. The lesson was conducted by Miss Shirley Engelsrud, and the group sang Christmas carols. Hostesses for the meeting were Miss Eleanor Ford and Miss Louise Baer.

Guests were Mrs. Charles Boyce, Mrs. Boyd Robinson, Mrs. Robert Cassidy, Mrs. William Bishop, Mrs. Milo Hieber, Mrs. A. D. McKenzie, Mrs. Ray Turner and Mrs. W. H. Gifford.

Hostesses last night were Mrs. H. J. Dotson, Mrs. John Eisaman, Mrs. W. W. Blauser, Mrs. Harold Ramsey, Mrs. C. C. Secrist, Mrs. Glen Robinson and Mrs. F. B. Million. The next meeting will be held Jan. 17 at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Frank, 138 West Third street.

GIVE PAPERS.

Mrs. Richard Uhl, Penn avenue, entertained the Queen Esthers and Standard Bearers of the First Methodist church at her home yesterday when Miss Ethel Hughes gave the paper "North of the Rio Grande." Miss Evelyn Corwin read a paper on Harwood school for girls, and Miss Sarah Jane Diehl read another paper on Isabel Thornton college. A social hour followed and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Jan. 17, but the place will be announced later.

Fete Bride-Elect At Supper Party Thursday Night

The Misses Margaret and Frances Strickler feted Miss Sarabell Kramer with a supper-bridge party at their home, 465 Park avenue west, last evening. Miss Emily Burns, who will be one of Miss Kramer's bridesmaids when she becomes the bride of John VanWagner of Shelby on New Year day, presided at the buffet supper table, which was lighted with tall red tapers and decorated with holiday appointments. The guests were seated at three small tables, which also were decorated in keeping with the festive season.

Bridge was the evening's diversion, and prizes were won by Miss Burns and the honoree. The guests gave Miss Kramer a shower of bathroom gifts, and the hostesses presented her with a wedding gift.

Another party is being given for the bride-elect this evening by Miss Eleanor Clingan, Mrs. Norman E. Leonard and Mrs. Eugene Linham at the latter's home on Glenwood boulevard. Mrs. Robert Glassner of Milwaukee, Wis., who was formerly Miss Jean Gorman of this city, was in attendance at the party last night.

COVERED-DISH.

Mrs. Paul Harter, Mrs. Mary Ackerman and Mrs. J. Lyle Smith, presided as hostesses for a covered-dish dinner and gift exchange for members of the Second district of First Lutheran church at the church Wednesday. There were 29 members and six guests present. The president, Mrs. E. W. McCready, conducted the devotions and Bernard Simmons sang several numbers, accompanied at the piano by his mother, Mrs. Wade Simmons. Another meeting is scheduled for Jan. 17, with the hostesses to be announced later.

* * *

NO SESSION.

Members of Auxiliary No. 100, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War did not meet last night at the Memorial building, but officers announced this morning that installation will be held at the hall Jan. 3.

ANNUAL PROGRAM.

The parents of the Carpenter school children were the guests at the program presented last night at the school by all the children of the school. The entire faculty of the school assisted with the presentation, of songs, dances and recitations. This was the regular P. T. A. meeting.

PRE-HOLIDAY EVENTS CROWD LAST FEW DAYS

WITH Christmas only a few days away now, all entertaining has settled down to pre-holiday parties and exchanges of gifts. Members of Pi Alpha Gamma sorority were the guests of Miss Sarah Catherine Wallace, Park avenue west, last night for a Christmas party. Mrs. Van L. Stevenson was associate hostess, and Miss Margaret Black conducted the games. Gifts were exchanged when members played a modified form of musical chairs. Various games were played, and prizes were won by Miss Kathryn E. Culp, Miss Isabel Mosey, Miss Virginia Wagner, Miss Margaret Evans and Miss Florence White. At the close of play refreshments were served at small tables. Ice cream in various yuletide molds and cake decorated with frosting holly were served.

* * *

A formal progressive dinner party entertained a group of girls employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company office last night. The first course was served at the home of Miss Dorothy Leech followed by the main course at the home of Miss Louise Enderle. Miss Eleanor Star and Miss Dorothy Arter assisted.

BUSINESS MEETING HELD.

Routine business was transacted at the meeting of the Miriam Rebekah lodge Wednesday in the I. O. O. F. hall. Lois Addlesberger was in charge. Another meeting, Jan. 3, will feature a covered-dish dinner for the Sewing circle at noon, and installation of officers of the lodge.

Candlelight Service Held By Church Group

Mrs. J. W. Waddell, East Fourth street, opened her home to members of the Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church, Wednesday, with Mrs. W. F. Miller as associate hostess.

Mrs. W. E. Shane, president, conducted a short business session, and Mrs. A. E. Courtney was in charge of devotions. Mrs. Waddell gave the program of the afternoon, entitled, "A Candlelight Service," in which she reviewed outstanding events in the lives of deceased missionaries, as well as members of the organization. As she told of each member she lighted a candle in her memory. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. The next event will be a meeting at the home of Mrs. George Rusk, West First street, with Mrs. W. E. Shane as associate.

Being Forty Not Bad

By MME. QUI VIVE

Women are inclined to make a big to-do about birthdays. They hate the idea of getting out of finger touch with their youth, but they can't do anything about ii. It's silly for them to rave and protest. After all, the forty girl has beauty qualities that the twenty girls can't hope to have. They may not consist of the flawless complexion and the reedy shape, but they are compelling, nevertheless.

The youngsters want to look pretty; the forties know that prettiness is a drug on the market and that it doesn't get one places. Youth may be self conscious or arrogant. Middle age is more at ease, having found out that we're all cut out of pretty much the same kind of cloth. Graciousness, charming manners, amiability are cultivated because, after all, those are the qualities that are a power in love and friendship. Beautiful complexions, ambrosial locks, svelte figures attract the eye but they aren't likely to quicken heartbeats. They're nice to have, we all want them; but if we haven't got them there are compensations.

We are judged by behavior rather than looks and after you have lived for forty years you'll find that out. Nice manners are an expression of a kindly spirit and mental culture. They mean something.

Youth is every ready to shout its opinions; middle age, if it has learned anything, keeps its mouth shut and smiles. Arguments are a total loss. Take no chance of getting a persimmon face by getting into conflicts.

Older women are more tranquil than the twenty girls; better company. Having sized up the male of the species the older women give the men a chance to brag about themselves, a diversion the gents find refreshing and delightful. Mrs. Forty isn't likely to be greatly impressed with the superior sex and so the superior sex finds her companionable, easy to get along with. She doesn't expect as much attention as does the little darling who has just slipped out of her teens. She keeps a rein on her emotions, doesn't fly off the handle if the escort is late for his appointment. What's the use? Men are like that.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I realized something which put all conjectures about her mischief out of my mind for the time being, although I knew I should return to the consideration of them. Olina had taken but a step from the telephone, and then had "frozen" as might a pointer, and was standing motionless.

I knew instinctively what was the matter. With the light behind her, she had seen that my door was ajar, and was wondering whether I had heard her conversation.

With infinite pains, taking care that no rustle betrayed me, I turned my face almost into my pillow, and then waited breathlessly for what would come next.

At last, after it seemed to me I should shriek with the suspense, she tip-toed along the hall and stopped in front of my door. Knocking ever so lightly, she whispered, "Mrs. Graham! Are you awake?"

I made no answer, but made my breathing rhythmic and a little on the heavy side. After an instant's pause she spoke again, this time in more audible tones.

"Mrs. Graham!"

I stirred myself and said sleepily:

"Who's there? What's the matter?"

"It is I, Olina, Mrs. Graham," she responded, and with a surprised little exclamation, I put out my hand and switched on the reading lamp by my couch. Then I sat up and blinked sleepily at her.

"Why, Olina child, what's the matter?" I asked solicitously. "Is your mother ill?"

"No, she's asleep," she answered, after she had shot a quick, surreptitious glance at me. "But I couldn't sleep because I have such a headache. And there isn't a single aspirin in the room. I came down to see if I could get some of you."

"Thank you," she returned, walking to the desk and extracting the pellets from the box. When she turned back to the door she said prettily:

"I am so sorry to have disturbed you."

"You haven't disturbed me in the least," I told her, improvising rapidly and suppressing a frantic desire to seize her shapely shoulders and shake out of her a confession of just what she was trying to do to Mary. "Mrs. Underwood is going to sleep in here tonight. She and her husband are in conference with my father now, and there are things we must discuss before we sleep. I knew if I undressed and went to bed, I wouldn't be able to awaken enough to talk or to listen intelligently, so I just dropped down on the couch. You really have done me a great service. I shall be able to keep awake now."

"I'm glad I'm of some use in the world," she said, and I thought I detected a note of bitterness beneath the light retort.

"Thank you so much for the tablets," she went on. "I'm sure I shall be able to sleep now. Good-night!"

"Good-night!" I answered, and as she went stealthily through the hall and into the rooms occupied by herself and her mother, I heard another door close at the far end of the corridor, and was not surprised to see Lillian appear almost immediately afterward.

She began to scold me almost as soon as she came through the door.

"What do you mean by not being in bed?" she demanded. "And you ready to drop in your tracks! You weren't waiting for me by any chance, were you?"

"No, I wasn't," I returned, smiling, "although I've just perjured myself by saving I was. I've been engaged in what you would call 'following a hunch,' and I caught up with it."

She looked at me searchingly.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Dec. 22.

A rather negligible day is presaged from certain planetary aspects that may not be interpreted as fortuitous. There are elements of petty strife, irritabilities, "grouches" and low spirits generally, both in business and in the home circle. However, it would be well to suppress such tendencies in association with employers and superiors, as they might provoke disagreeable situations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of moderate activity, with but little to lift affairs from the path of routine or dull mediocrity. This might be due to a disposition to be vexatious, irritable and not very congenial, owing largely to a morbid, depressed and introspective state of mind, or physical ills.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature, with warm impulses and sympathies and, as well, deep recesses of pessimism or melancholy.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

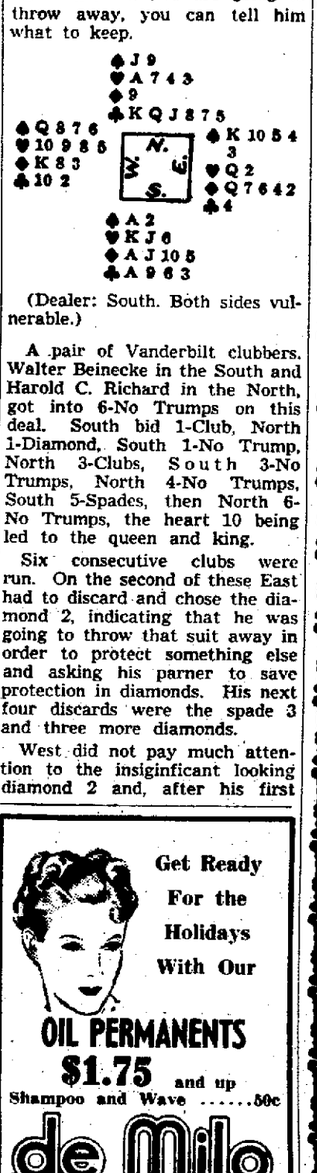
SAYING WHAT TO HOLD

While the declarer is running his long suit at No Trump, you have to throw something away. You and your partner can gang up on him if you divide the work of protecting the other suits. By signaling what you are going to throw away, you can tell him what to keep.



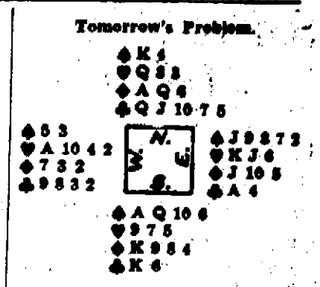
(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

A pair of Vanderbilt clubbers. Walter Beinecke in the South and Harold C. Richard in the North, got into 6-No Trumps on this deal. South bid 1-Club, North 1-Diamond, South 1-No Trump, North 3-Clubs, South 3-No Trumps, North 4-No Trumps, South 5-Spades, then North 6-No Trumps, the heart 10 being led to the queen and king.

Six consecutive clubs were run. On the second of these East had to discard and chose the diamond 2, indicating that he was going to throw that suit away in order to protect something else and asking his parner to save protection in diamonds. His next four discards were the spade 3 and three more diamonds.

West did not pay much attention to the insignificant looking diamond 2 and, after his first two discards of the spade 6 and heart 5, he then discarded the diamond 3 and diamond 8, blanking his diamond king. Mr. Beinecke therefore was able to drop the diamond honors and make 7-No Trumps.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Against North's 3-No Trumps, why should East, after leading the diamond jack to the ace and taking the second club, then prefer a heart lead?

Being Forty Not Bad

By MME. QUI VIVE

Women are inclined to make a big to-do about birthdays. They hate the idea of getting out of finger touch with their youth, but they can't do anything about it. It's silly for them to rave and protest. After all, the forty girl has beauty qualities that the twenty girls can't hope to have. They may not consist of the flawless complexion and the reedy shape, but they are compelling, nevertheless.

The youngsters want to look pretty; the forties know that prettiness is a drug on the market and that it doesn't get one places. Youth may be self conscious or arrogant. Middle age is more at ease, having found out that we're all cut out of pretty much the same kind of cloth. Graciousness, charming manners, amiability are cultivated because, after all, those are the qualities that are a power in love and friendship. Beautiful complexions, ambrosial locks, svelte figures attract the eye but they aren't likely to quicken heartbeats. They're nice to have, we all want them; but if we haven't got them there are compensations.

We are judged by behavior rather than looks and after you have lived for forty years you'll find that out. Nice manners are an expression of a kindly spirit and mental culture. They mean something.

Youth is every ready to shout its opinions; middle age, if it has learned anything, keeps its mouth shut and smiles. Arguments are a total loss. Take no chance of getting a persimmon face by getting into conflicts.

Older women are more tranquil than the twenty girls; better company. Having sized up the male of the species the older women give the men a chance to brag about themselves, a diversion the gents find refreshing and delightful. Mrs. Forty isn't likely to be greatly impressed with the superior sex and so the superior sex finds her companionable, easy to get along with. She doesn't expect as much attention as does the little darling who has just slipped out of her teens. She keeps a rein on her emotions, doesn't fly off the handle if the escort is late for his appointment. What's the use? Men are like that.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I realized something which put all conjectures about her mischief out of my mind for the time being, although I knew I should return to the consideration of them. Olina had taken but a step from the telephone, and then had "frozen" as might a pointer, and was standing motionless.

I knew instinctively what was the matter. With the light behind her, she had seen that my door was ajar, and was wondering whether I had heard her conversation.

With infinite pains, taking care that no rustle betrayed me, I turned my face almost into my pillow, and then waited breathlessly for what would come next.

At last, after it seemed to me I should shriek with the suspense, she tip-toed along the hall and stopped in front of my door. Knocking ever so lightly, she whispered, "Mrs. Graham! Are you awake?"

I made no answer, but made my breathing rhythmic and a little on the heavy side. After an instant's pause she spoke again, this time in more audible tones.

"Mrs. Graham!"

I stirred myself and said sleepily:

"Who's there? What's the matter?"

"It is I, Olina, Mrs. Graham," she responded, and with a surprised little exclamation, I put out my hand and switched on the reading lamp by my couch. Then I sat up and blinked sleepily at her.

"Why, Olina child, what's the matter?" I asked solicitously. "Is your mother ill?"

"No, she's asleep," she answered, after she had shot a quick, surreptitious glance at me. "But I couldn't sleep because I have such a headache. And there isn't a single aspirin in the room I came down to see if I could get some of you."

"There's a box right over on the desk there," I told her. "Take as many as you wish."

"Thank you," she returned, walking to the desk and extracting the pellets from the box. When she turned back to the door she said prettily:

"I am so sorry to have disturbed you."

"You haven't disturbed me in the least," I told her, improvising rapidly and suppressing a frantic desire to seize her shapely shoulders and shake out of her a confession of just what she was trying to do to Mary. "Mrs. Underwood is going to sleep in here tonight. She and her husband are in conference with my father now, and there are things we must discuss before we sleep. I knew if I undressed and went to bed, I wouldn't be able to awaken enough to talk or to listen intelligently, so I just dropped down on the couch. You really have done me a great service. I shall be able to keep awake now."

"I'm glad I'm of some use in the world," she said, and I thought I detected a note of bitterness beneath the light retort.

"Thank you so much for the tablets," she went on. "I'm sure I shall be able to sleep now. Good-night!"

"Good-night!" I answered, and as she went stealthily through the hall and into the rooms occupied by herself and her mother, I heard another door close at the far end of the corridor, and was not surprised to see Lillian appear almost immediately afterward.

She began to scold me almost as soon as she came through the door.

"What do you mean by not being in bed?" she demanded. "And you ready to drop in your tracks! You weren't waiting for me by any chance, were you?"

"No, I wasn't," I returned, smiling, "although I've just perjured myself by saying I was. I've been engaged in what you would call 'following a hunch,' and I caught up with it."

She looked at me searchingly.

"And I'll bet the right front hair on the cat's whisker that it has something to do with that hell cat, Olina," she said.

Nothing is wasted in the use of ivory. Scraps and shavings are hoarded and made into dust for polishing, India ink and even food.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Dec. 22.

A rather negligible day is presaged from certain planetary aspects that may not be interpreted as fortuitous. There are elements of petty strife, irritabilities, "grouches" and low spirits generally, both in business and in the home circle. However, it would be well to suppress such tendencies in association with employers and superiors, as they might provoke disagreeable situations.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of moderate activity, with but little to lift affairs from the path of routine or dull mediocrity. This might be due to a disposition to be vexatious, irritable and not very congenial, owing largely to a morbid, depressed and introspective state of mind, or physical ills.

A child born on this day may have a rather contradictory nature, with warm impulses and sympathies and, as well, deep recesses of pessimism or melancholy.

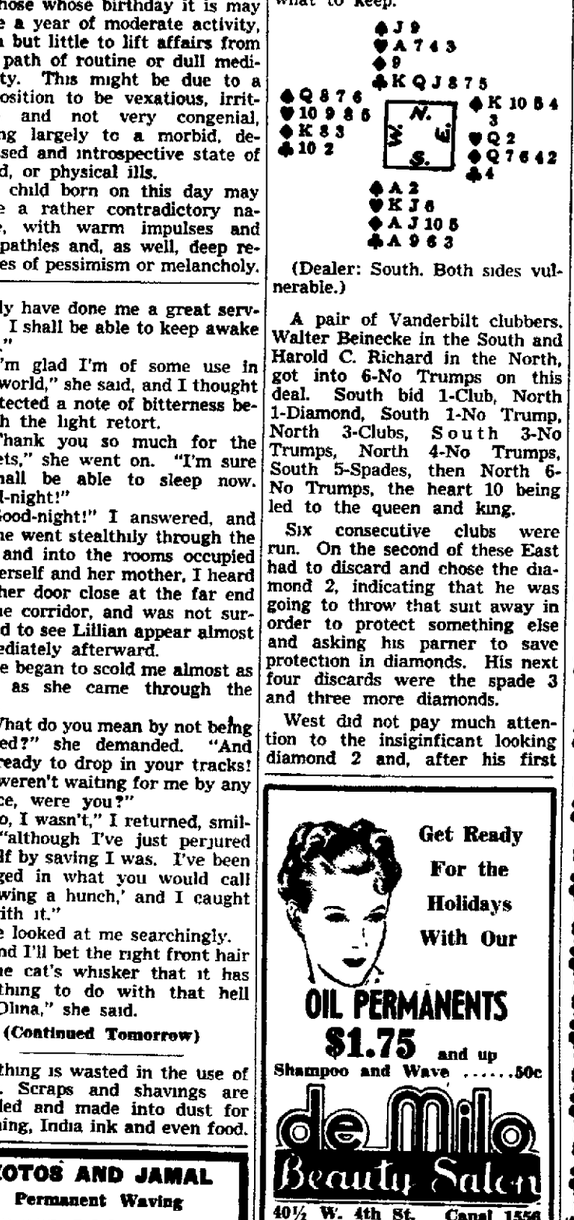
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

SAYING WHAT TO HOLD

While the declarer is running his long suit at No Trump, you have to throw something away. You and your partner can gang up on him if you divide the work of protecting the other suits. By signaling what you are going to throw away, you can tell him what to keep.



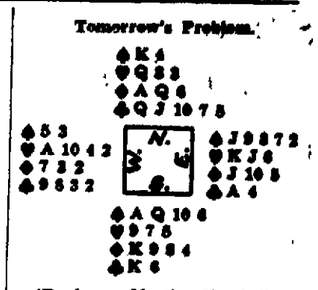
(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

A pair of Vanderbilt clubbers. Walter Beinecke in the South and Harold C. Richard in the North, got into 6-No Trumps on this deal. South bid 1-Club, North 1-Diamond, South 1-No Trump, North 3-Clubs, South 3-No Trumps, North 4-No Trumps, South 5-Spades, then North 6-No Trumps, the heart 10 being led to the queen and king.

Six consecutive clubs were run. On the second of these East had to discard and chose the diamond 2, indicating that he was going to throw that suit away in order to protect something else and asking his partner to save protection in diamonds. His next four discards were the spade 3 and three more diamonds.

West did not pay much attention to the insiginficant looking diamond 2 and, after his first two discards of the spade 6 and heart 5, he then discarded the diamond 3 and diamond 8, blanking his diamond king. Mr. Beinecke therefore was able to drop the diamond honors and make 7-No Trumps.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

Against North's 3-No Trumps, why should East, after leading the diamond jack to the ace and taking the second club, then prefer a heart lead?

OPPOSES U. S. LEVY INCREASE ON CONSUMERS

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., reiterated today that he was opposed to further increases in consumer taxes as President Roosevelt was represented as considering tapping excise taxes, among others, to raise at least $500,000,000 additional revenue for national defense.

The secretary told a press conference he felt that taxes on consumers were high enough already.

He declined to comment on reports that the president was thinking about asking congress to raise the additional revenue for national defense through increases in middle brackets of estate and individual income taxes and excise taxes. The latter, while ostensibly assessed on manufacturers, are in effect consumer taxes because the public eventually pays the levy as part of purchase prices.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference this week that he would present again to congress when it meets Jan. 3 his claim for $550,000,000 of new tax revenue to compensate the treasury for farm subsidies paid out in the past two years.

The combined tax increase to be proposed therefore would aggregate $1,050,000,000, if plans now said to be under consideration were adopted. It was understood that Mr. Roosevelt would not suggest specific rates to be imposed to pay the farm subsidy bill.

But the United Press was informed there was consideration of a specific program to raise $500,000,000 for national defense:

1. An increase of middle bracket estate tax rates.
2. An increase in middle bracket personal income tax rates.
3. An increase in selected manufacturers' excise taxes

"Middle brackets" is not a precise term with respect either to estate or income tax rates. But examination of the income tax structure suggests that the term might be used to designate incomes from the beginning of the surtax level, which is $5,500 for single persons and $7,000 for childless married persons, and range perhaps to the $50,000-a-year income level.

4 Per Cent Normal Rate.

Normal income tax rate from top to bottom is 4 per cent. The surtax on single persons begins with an additional 4 per cent and increases gradually to 75 per cent on incomes over $5,000,000 a year. The normal tax and surtax combined on a $50,000 net income is 31 per cent for persons with or without dependents. The surtax on married persons begins with 4 per cent at $7,000.

Manufacturer's excise or sales taxes include: automobiles, 2 per cent; electrical energy, 3 per cent; gasoline, one cent per gallon; lubricating oil, four cents per gallon; matches, five cents per thousand; refrigerators, 5 per cent of sales price; pistols and revolvers, 10 per cent; radios, 10 per cent; tires and tubes, two and one-quarter cents a pound.

CRASH UPSETS ACTOR'S HOLIDAY

DEMING, N. M.—(AP)—An auto accident broke up Actor Frank Morgan's plans for a Mexico City vacation trip.

Morgan and his wife and their son, George, 25, escaped with painful but not serious injuries. However, his chauffeur, William Martin, suffered a fractured skull and physicians said his condition was "critical."

Mrs. Morgan's leg was broken. The others were cut and bruised.

GET DIPLOMAS

Two Mansfielders and two other students from Loudonville and Millersburg were among the 250 members of the Christmas graduating class who received diplomas today at Ohio State university.

Representatives in the class from Mansfield were Robert H. Coe, 35 Brickman avenue, and John Koman, 746 Bowman street. Both received degrees in commerce and administration.

Also in the class were John J. Long of Loudonville who received a master of arts degree and Minnie Kochenderfer, who graduated from the school of education.

Dr. Viva Boothe, acting director of Ohio State's bureau of business research, gave the commencement address.

Parole Violators Recaptured After Escape From Jail

A few hours after they had dashed past jail attendants and escaped from the Hardin county jail, Major Ellis, 21, and Benny Pierce, 22, reformatory parole violators, were recaptured today by Kenton police in a haymow a short distance from the jail

International News Service dispatches from Kenton said the pair had escaped by dashing past jail attendants who were returning breakfast dishes to the jail kitchen.

Ellis, who was arrested Tuesday night in Kenton, and Pierce were to have been returned to the Ohio State reformatory today. Ellis has served a three-year term for auto theft.

Meanwhile Associated Press dispatches from Greenup, Ky., said two fugitives who escaped from the reformatory orchard two weeks ago were taken into custody at the home of a relative.

They are Jack Callicoat, 21, of Bidwell, and George Townsend, 19, both of Mt. Vernon, both of whom fled from the orchard on Dec. 6.

Saturday's Last Chance, Kiddies, to See Show for a Can

The last opportunity this year to see a movie for a can of food will be given Mansfield youngsters Saturday morning when the Park theater stages its "can matinee" for the benefit of the Christmas dinner which the Volunteers of America will give at their hall.

Manager Ralph Shafer has chosen a Western action thriller for his top feature. "Ghost Town" with Jack Randall tells the story of one of the many "ghost towns" of the mining country which is used as headquarters for a band of outlaws.

The funny Three Stooges in "Flat Foot Stooges" is the comedy on the bill and there will be an animated comedy cartoon.

The doors open at 9 a. m. and the show starts at 9:30. Admission price is a can of fruit or vegetables which can be used for the Christmas dinner which the Volunteers of America will give to homeless men and women.

BELLVILLE — The Bellville Boosters club held a banquet Tuesday evening in the school auditorium honoring the 1939 football squad and their coach, Royd Hodge.

Letters were presented to all boys who had earned them and to the two managers, Louis Livingston and Richard Bachelor.

Coach Mackey, assistant coach at Ohio State university, was the principal speaker. He showed motion pictures of the Michigan and Ohio State game and others.

Sets Up New Rule For Past Lighting Contest Winners

Winners in last year's Christmas lighting contest will not be eligible to win prizes this year unless they work out a different scheme of decorating, it was announced today by the Girl Reserve committee in charge of the contest.

For several years the same winners in the various districts have taken prizes with effective decorations which were the same year after year, the committee said. This year they may compete with entirely new decorations. The contest opens Christmas eve and closes New Years eve.

Considerable interest is being shown in the contest and many new features are being worked out in Christmas home decorations. The Santa Claus and sleigh with reindeers atop the Westinghouse bridge over East Fourth street can be seen for blocks and filling stations—although none of these business places can compete in the contest—are "dolling up" for Christmas.

Mansfield's youngest neighbor, South Boulevards, which recently was incorporated as a town, is celebrating its first Christmas by many attractive home decorations.

Six first prizes of $5 each are being offered in the contest.

SHARE IN YULE WEEK BUSINESS

Weinberger Employes to Get Extra Week's Pay Under Plan.

Employes of Weinberger Drug store, 32 North Main street, will share in a percentage of all sales from Dec. 18 through Dec. 24, the busiest week of the year, as their Christmas gift from the company, C. H. Porus, manager of the store, said today.

The bonus will average about a week's extra salary for each employe of the Mansfield store. The entire staff of 20 men and women will benefit under the plan, Porus said.

Adolph Weinberger, president of the company at Cleveland, announced that the Christmas gift plan had been put into effect in all stores in the Weinberger system.

Germans Get More For Money Under Rumanian Treaty

BUCHAREST — (AP) — Granted nearly a 20 per cent increase in the purchasing power of the mark, Germany last night signed a new trade agreement with Rumania.

In effect, the exchange concession by Rumania represents nearly a 20 per cent reduction in the price Germany henceforth will pay for Rumanian raw materials—chiefly oil—and a corresponding increase in the price Rumania will pay for finished products in return.

Among other things, the new pact calls for Rumania to send Germany 190,000 tons of oil monthly. For the first eight months of this year Germany average 120,000 tons monthly but since the war, largely because of the allied blockade, the figure has been cut to 80,000 tons monthly.

The agreement ended months of negotiations. The problem was responsible for a cabinet crisis which resulted in resignation of the government of Premier Constantine Argetoianu who was succeeded by George Tatarescu.

EX-SHERIFF KILLED

DAYTON — (U.P.) — Edward J. Lao, insurance agent and former Montgomery county sheriff, died yesterday of injuries suffered when his automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train at Stillwater Junction.

PROGRAM FRIDAY

Children at U. B. Church to Stage Annual Christmas Event.

The annual Christmas program by members of the children's department of the First United Brethren church will be presented at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

The program includes songs, recitations and playlets, under the direction of Miss Mary Myrtle Yohn, children's department superintendent, and teachers of the department. A Santa Claus will be on hand to present each child with a treat.

1,400 AT TAPPAN HOLIDAY PARTY

Employes Present Own Entertainment At Annual Event.

About 1,400 employes of the Tappan Stove company and their families attended a Christmas party staged in the Senior high school auditorium last night by the company.

A program of entertainment including vocal and instrumental numbers, tap dancing, comedy acts and music by Aub Oman and his orchestra comprised of employes of the Tappan company, was presented. Miss Anna Nanich was program chairman and Arthur Smith acted as master of ceremonies.

P. R. Tappan, company president, gave a short talk and a Santa Claus presented candy and oranges to over 300 children.

CITY LAW PUTS CRIMP IN NEW YEAR WELCOME

Bans Liquor Sales Until 6 A. M. Jan. 1—Home Celebrations to Take Spotlight.

It appeared today that Mansfielders who plan to welcome the New Year with the toasts of alcoholic content will have to do so in the privacy of their own homes or patronize the only two night clubs in the county (outside the city) holding 2:30 a. m. closing licenses.

For no action to suspend the city ordinance governing the hours when liquor may be sold in the night spots for New Year eve—which this year falls on Sunday—seems likely.

Some cities which have ordinances like Mansfield's—which stipulates that no liquor may be sold from midnight Saturday until 6 a. m. Monday—have suspended the law for a night. That leaves only the state regulations in effect, and they permit drink emporiums to start selling at the stroke of the New Year and continue to 1 a. m. or 2:30, depending on the type of licenses held.

In the case of the night clubs outside the city, state regulations will prevail and Sheriff E. P. Long said today they would be allowed to open at midnight New Year eve and remain open until 2:30 a. m. Monday.

It'll Be Fast, Furious.

Even in places where that system will prevail, the celebrating would have to be at a fast and furious pace—for 150 minutes isn't a great deal of time, and the bars would probably be crowded to capacity.

Legally, only city council, which voted the ordinance now in effect here, banning the sale of drinks from midnight Saturday to 6 a. m. Monday, has the power to vote suspension of the ordinance for a night.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter, however, has indicated he would take no action to ask council to set aside the ordinance—pointing out that he won't be chief executive after Dec. 31, and therefore doesn't want to urge an action that would become effective in the administration of his successor, William J. Locke.

Locke can't take any action, because he isn't mayor. By the time he is, it'll be too late to do anything.

So far as Chief of Police Meade K. Bates is concerned, the law will be enforced as it stands on the books. That means Mansfield bars may not sell any liquor after midnight Saturday, Dec. 30—a whole day before New Year eve—nor before 6 a. m. Monday, New Year day.

The city council in Columbus has suspended its ordinance to allow bars to open at midnight Sunday as have several other cities—and of course, bars will be open in cities whose ordinances have the same closing regulations as the state liquor department.

WHEAT DROPS TO $1.03 IN CITY

6¼ Cent Drop Attributed to Heavy Sales In Past Week.

Off 6¼ cents since yesterday morning in a fluctuating market, wheat today was selling for $1.03 a bushel in Mansfield.

Millers said the price, which ranged from a dollar last week to $1.09¼ Tuesday, was expected to become more stable today when the federal government issues its periodic report on crop conditions, showing effects of the fall drought on the 1940 grain outlook.

The price drop was attributed to heavy selling of stored grain which followed the sharp market increase a few days ago.

KILLED BY FALL

ONE MORE DAY

Pupils Start Annual Holiday Vacation Tomorrow.

Students in Mansfield public and parochial schools will be dismissed after classes tomorrow afternoon for their annual Christmas vacation, the longest on the school calendar.

Public school pupils will have a two-week vacation, returning to classes Monday, Jan. 8, while pupils at St. Peter's elementary and high schools will resume their studies Tuesday, Jan. 2. The holiday for Country Day schools begins at noon Friday and continues until Jan. 8.

Students in Springfield township schools will be dismissed this afternoon, returning to school Jan. 2, while Madison township schools were dismissed yesterday afternoon, with classes resuming Wednesday, Jan. 3.

REV. SWOYER'S BOOK ON CHRIST TO BE PUBLISHED WITHIN WEEK

A second Mansfield minister joins the writing fraternity with the publication this week of "The Saving Presence." He is Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church.

Six years ago Rev. M. G. Nicola, rector of Grace Episcopal church, had his first novel "Tinkling Cymbals" published. He now is at work on a second novel.

Rev. Swoyer's book is nonfiction and provides a study of the high points in the life of Christ. It deals with the birth, the early life, the teachings, the crucifixion, the descent from the cross, the ascension, and the second coming of Christ.

The Mansfield minister began his book about ten years ago and had practically completed it when his publisher told him a year ago that it was too long for a popular-priced book. The author set about condensing and re-writing the book and the work was completed several weeks ago.

It is being published, in 153 pages, by the Zondervan Publishing company of Grand Rapids. The first copies are expected here within a few days.

MASSILLON TO HONOR PIONEER

MASSILLON, O.—This northern Ohio city plans to honor the old Yankee Skipper, an early Massillon settler, who more than 130 years ago found the secret island refuge of the famed mutineers from his British majesty's ship "Bounty."

The Civic Unity association plans to erect a monument over the site of the grave of Capt. Mayhew Folger, doughty seafarer who discovered Pitcairn's island and brought back to the world the almost-legendary story of the fate of the nine mutineers.

Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, authors of "Mutiny On the Bounty," which dramatizes the famous revolt that is credited with lightening the lot of sailors throughout the world, have been invited to write a suitable inscription for the proposed marker.

In 1808, nearly 20 years after the famous mutiny, Captain Folger, master of the sailing ship "Topaz," landed on Pitcairn's island in the Pacific South Seas. There he heard the now-famous story from Alexander Smith, sole survivor of the nine English seamen who, with a group of natives, sailed the Bounty from Tahiti in search of a refuge from the wrath of Captain Bligh and the British navy.

Five years later, in 1813, Captain Folger settled in what is now Massillon, because, he is reported to have said, "the war (of 1812) played hell with the shipping business." He opened a tavern and later served as postmaster. He died in 1828, and was buried in the old Union cemetery.

Even in death adventure followed Captain Folger. When his relatives opened his grave some years later to remove his body to a new cemetery, the body was missing. It was believed to be one of many stolen by grave-robbers seeking cadavers for medical students.

'GOOD AS DEAD'

MACON—(INS)—Reporting that all the others had died, an unnamed 15-year-old boy brought back three of the Macon hospital laboratory's missing guinea pigs with this penitent message: "I feel like I have diphtheria, tuberculosis and everything else those pigs were inoculated with. I know I'm as good as dead now."

G-MEN BUSY IN ARIZONA CITIES

(By United Press)

PHOENIX, Ariz.—A growing influx of criminals apparently seeking safety in Arizona's "wide open spaces" has prompted the Federal Bureau of Investigation to re-open its Arizona office, closed two years ago in an economy drive.

Although FBI agents admitted the re-opening was caused by an "increased volume of business," they maintained the utmost secrecy on the nature of the business.

Two theories stand out, however, both of which local authorities believe may have caused the FBI to re-establish headquarters here.

The second theory, and that most generally accepted, is that the growing numbers of fugitives apprehended in Arizona led the FBI to station permanent men in this state.

Catholics Begin Campaign for 'God In Government'

CINCINNATI—(INS)—With the avowed object of making each of the 21,000,000 Catholics of the United States "a fellow traveler in good citizenship," the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine has launched a nation-wide campaign to be known as "The Crusade for God in Government."

In line with the program, the fifth National Catechetical Congress of the Confraternity stressed the civic duties and privileges of the American Catholic.

Explaining the purpose of the crusade, Rev. John E. Kuhn, national director of the C. C. D., said:

"Viewing the havoc wrought in Europe by totalitarian governments which have challenged the supremacy of God and scrapped the dignity of man, the hierarchy determined to emphasize in every American Catholic institution, the underlying principles of democracy and to make every one of the faithful a fellow traveler in good citizenship."

The first statue erected in modern Turkey was one showing Mustapha Kemal on horseback. Under the sultans, sculptures and portraits were forbidden.

DO BIG JOB

2 Pekingese Dogs Trail, Tree Possum Bigger Than Selves.

HENDERSON, Ky. — (AP) — While Otis Benton and Joe Roberts were riding along a nearby highway they spied a possum. Returning to town, they picked up Benton's two Pekingese dogs and went back to the spot where they saw the 'possum jump into a clump of bushes.

"Ko Ko" and "Shasta," the Pekes, routed the 'possum, chased it up a tree and Roberts shot it down. On examination, the two hunters found their quarry was larger than either of the dogs.

Report Finland Seeks $50,000,000 War Loan From U. S.

FINN ENVOYS SOUNDING OUT CONGRESSMEN

Government's Agents Seeking Funds to Buy Arms; Wall Street Refuses Appeal.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Finland was reported reliably today to be seeking a $50,000,000 loan from the United States government to buy war materials for use against invading Russian armies.

Representatives of the Finnish government were said to have sounded out congressional leaders on the proposal after they were unsuccesful in obtaining Wall Street financing for such a sum.

Although these representatives were described as restrained in their discussions, one member of congress who was approached said he gained the distinct impression that the Finns felt they could not long hold out against Russia's overpowering forces unless they were given more than moral support.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation recently lent Finland $10,000,000 for the purchase in this country of non-war materials such as agricultural surpluses. This money went to the Finnish-American trading corporation, organized by Hjalmar Procope, Finnish minister to the United States.

While the Finns welcomed this, they were represented as contending that their greatest need was for battle planes, guns and other war materials.

Preliminary discussions among congressmen apparently brought no definite reaction one way or the other on the proposed loan because of the complex questions involved.

Such a loan, it was pointed out, would violate a principle which has been laid down in this government's recent financial transactions with other countries—that no money would be lent for the purchase of war materials.

In addition, it was pointed out, a direct war loan to the Finns might involve this country's relations with Russia.

Even more important, one member of congress said, would be the possibility that a loan to Finland might be considered as the first step toward precipitating this country into Europe's affairs.

Health Seal Sale In County Nets $3,550 To Date

Of the 10,000 people in Mansfield and Richland county who received Christmas Health Seals, only 5,000 have made returns, either sending the money for the stamps or returning the stamps, Mrs. R. C. Rehder, who is in charge of the sale by mail, said today.

Revenue received to date on the seals totals $3,550. The goal is $5,000. Officials of the Richland County Tuberculosis association, which sponsors the sale of Health Seals, said they were anxious to have all reports in before the end of the year when the sale ends.

Dr. F. J. Heringhaus, president of the tuberculosis association, said there had been considerable misunderstanding on the use of the Health Seal funds and that many persons had confused its purpose with that of the half-mill levy voted last year for the care and treatment of the disease.

The two funds, he said, do not duplicate in any way, as the Health Seal funds are used exclusively for free clinic work to detect tuberculosis cases and contacts, while the levy funds must be used specifically for care and treatment of cases after the smaller fund locates them.

Revision of Farm Lending Policies Looms

Up and Down THE STREET

Harold W. Arlin, Mansfield school board president, thinks he was the victim of a practical joke the other night, but he can't prove it. He was riding home from a meeting with Harry Mehock, director of physical education, when the car went dead at a down-town intersection. Mehock said they were out of gas, so he and Arlin pushed the car a block to a filling station. "Fill it up," Mehock told the attendant, but two gallons ran the tank over. Mehock stepped on the starter and the car started the first time. Arlin thinks there was "something funny" about the whole thing, but Mehock contends that it was all an accident.

Police have been asked by a Worthington woman to locate the owners of a Cockerel spaniel which is at her home. The letter was written by Mrs. Eacil A. Davis, 41 Lincoln avenue, Worthington. The dog came to her home several days ago and the only clew to its identification is a collar on which is inscribed "Laddie, Mansfield, O."

There will be a lot of persons in Mansfield this Christmas who may wonder why they didn't get greeting cards from old friends. The postoffice can answer the question. Twenty-five cards were mailed by one person and were stamped and sealed — but there wasn't a sign of an address on them. They are in the dead letter office here now. Another woman was under the impression that a one-cent stamp would carry her cards in the city as long as they weren't sealed. But it takes one and a half cents for unsealed cards to any address, so about half of them came back to her and the other half was held in the dead letter office.

Council President-Elect Howard G. Miller will not be without a gavel when he calls council to order Jan. 2 for the first 1940 session. Council Clerk William J. Beer, jr., is going to see to that. Beer has had a walnut gavel made from one of the seasoned rails around the blockhouse at South park by youths on the NYA woodworking project. He is going to present it to Miller at council's organization meeting.

CHAMBER BACKS FIGHT ON TAXES

Committee, Directors Ready to Battle Flood Assessments in Muskingum District.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — An Ohio chamber of commerce committee and the chamber's board of directors was directed today to support, if necessary, special enactments by the legislature to guarantee that assessments will not be levied upon property owners for flood control benefits in the Muskingum conservancy district in the future.

A meeting of "larger property owners" called by the chamber decided to refer administrative and legal questions "to an appropriate committee" with the following instructions:

That support be given for special legislation to permit the conservancy district to convey land to the federal government in the event that Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert rules that the district lacks the authority to do so under present law.

Enactment of enabling legislation prior to January, 1941, could only by accomplished at a special session of the general assembly. Only Governor Bricker has authority to call a special session.

By congressional action the federal government has assumed responsibility for meeting the district's obligations, including bonds outstanding, and property owners have at least theoretically been relieved.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

ASHLAND — Fire last night destroyed a large barn on the farm of C. Rowbottom on route 250, east of here. Lost in the flames were two trucks, 100 cases of eggs, and cold storage equipment valued at $1,000. Origin of the fire is not known, members of the Ashland Community Fire department said.

WOMAN ASKS $15,000 DAMAGES FOR INJURY SUFFERED IN FALL

Asserting that she fell through the porch floor at her home two months ago while she was pregnant and as a result lost her child before birth, Mrs. Minnie Richards, 14 East First street, had filed a $15,000 damage suit in common pleas court today against Harry C. O'Brien, owner of the property.

Mrs. Richards, wife of John M. Richards, accuses O'Brien of negligence because he allegedly failed to repair the porch floor.

She asserts in her action that her right foot broke through a rotten board last Oct. 12, causin injuries to her right leg, severe shock, and the resultant loss of the unborn child.

O'Brien, former superintendent of the city waterwork department, lives at 839 Maple street. His wife, Mrs. Anna K. O'Brien, is named a co-defendant as owner of part interest in the property.

Mrs. Richards is represented in her suit by Attys. C. F. Creedman and H. M. Rust.

MINISTER DIES

Rev. David Brandenburg, 68, Was Husband of Pastor.

Rev. David L. Brandenburg, 68, a retired Nazarene minister and husband of Rev. Lena Brandenburg, pastor of the Church of the Nazerene, died at his home, 116 Reba avenue, last evening after a brief illness.

Rev. Brandenburg, who retired from the ministry two and a half years ago, held pastorates in Franklin, Ironton, Springfield and South Zanesville.

He was born in Versailles, Ky., Jan. 31, 1871. The survivors include his wife, Lena; a son, Robert; a daughter, Ruth, at home, and a brother, William of Lexington, Ky.

Funeral services will be held at the Church of the Nazarene at 2 p. m. Saturday with Rev C. A. Gibson, superintendent of the Ohio district of the church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will be at the home until the time of services.

SHARE $22,000 SHELBY BONUS

SHELBY—Bonus checks totaling $22,000 were distributed among employes of the Shelby Cycle company today as Christmas gifts from the company.

John Seltzer, president, in announcing the bonus said the checks include a number for $75 which go to employes who have been employed at the plant prior to Jan. 1, 1936.

The values of other checks are determined according to length of employment, Seltzer said.

MISS BELL, 89, DIES IN ASHLAND

Hayesville Resident Stricken in Hospital; Rites Saturday.

ASHLAND — Miss Sarah Bell, 89, of Hayesville, died here yesterday at Samaritan hospital.

Born March 9, 1850 in Vermillion township, Miss Bell spent her entire life in Ashland county. She was a member of the Hayesville Presbyterian church.

Surviving are five sisters, Mrs. Emma Glass, Hayesville, Mrs. Nancy Egner, Shelby, Mrs. Lillie Maffett, Springfield, Mrs. Lizzie Harper and Mrs. Hattie Seltzer both of Ashland. Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Hayesville Presbyterian church with Rev. J. H. Varner officiating. Burial will be in Hayesville cemetery.

SHATTER SLOTS

ELYRIA — (INS)—Lorain county sheriff's deputies will attack 69 lawbreakers with sledge hammers tomorrow.

The lawbreakers, in the case, are slot machines, and they will be destroyed by Sheriff Carl Finegan's deputies in the county jail yard. The public destruction was ordered by Common Pleas Judge Guy B. Findley. Scrap metal will be sold to help defray storage costs.

FIGHT RESULTS IN RESIGNATION OF AGENCY HEAD

Agriculture Department Seeks to Place $5,000,000,000 FCA Closer to Farm Program.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Changes in form lending policies were expected in many capital quarters today to follow Secretary Wallace's victory in obtaining greater control over the Farm Credit administration.

Agricultural department officials, it was learned, wanted to tie in the operations of the $5,000,000 agency more directly with their general objectives, including those of soil conservation.

It is expected that the FCA henceforth will provide a measure of supervision and give advice on farm operations to its borrowers.

A conflict between agriculture department and FCA heads reached a climax yesterday with the resignation of F. F. Hill as governor of the credits agency. President Roosevelt appointed Dr. A. G. Black, head of the agricultural department's marketing and regulatory work, to succeed Hill.

The change of administrators probably will have repercussions in congress, for farm organizations as well as legislators have been arguing over farm lending methods.

Hill said in a statement that the issue is whether the FCA should be continued "as an autonomous federal agency supervising co-operative credit facilities in the farm field or be absorbed and become an integral part of a large department of government responsible for the administration of a great many other farm programs."

The FCA functions, Hill asserted, are comparable to those of the federal reserve system. Under its supervision are co-operative credit units such as the federal land bank system, the production credit system, and the banks for co-operatives.

In these institutions, Hill said, farmers of the country "have over $130,000,000 of their own hard-earned money invested."

"It is going to be difficult to explain to farmers," he added, "why one agency of the department of agriculture (commodity credit corporation) can lend 57 cents on 50-cent corn and another agency of the same department (federal land banks) cannot lend $110 or $115 per acre on $100 land."

ILLNESS FATAL

Mrs. Seth Hall, 75, Had Lived in Vicinity All Her Life.

Mrs. Catherine M. Hall, 75, of 162 Sturges avenue, wife of Seth R. Hall, died at her home today after a lingering illness.

A resident of this city for many years, Mrs. Hall was born in Perrysville, May 17, 1864.

The survivors include her husband, four sons, George E., Albert S., Roy and Lester J., of Mansfield; two daughters, Mrs. Ralph Wilson of Rutherford, N. J., and Mrs. Ted R. Roberts of Bellville; a brother, James O'Brien of Mansfield; a sister, Mrs. Mary Smith of Council Bluffs, Ia., nine grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the First Lutheran church officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Risks Stirring Up 'Pity' for Bioff to Keep Emphasizing His Offense

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—I begin to hear that the story of the underworld career of Willie Bioff, the labor boss of the amusement industry, is a bore, and that persistent pounding on the subject will make public sympathy for him.

That is a chance I will take, however, because I doubt that much of the public ever will feel pity, or anything but loathing, for a man convicted of the offense which was proved on Bioff in Chicago, where he was a habitual hoodlum and panderer.

I take the chance, moreover, because I am convinced that if public attention keeps after the officials now and yet to be concerned in this affair, not letting any of them neglect their job or sell out to criminals, one of the greatest and worst rackets that ever existed in this country will be broken up.

* * *

The six-month sentence that Bioff still owes in Chicago for pandering is just an incident. Far more significant is the fact that, in Los Angeles, the Central Labor council of the American Federation of Labor has adopted a resolution criticizing the Chicago authorities for attempting to extradite Bioff and send him to jail, where he belongs.

Why do you suppose an organization purporting to represent working men and women would deplore an attempt by a public official, Tom Courtney, the Chicago county prosecutor, to enforce a court sentence on a convicted panderer now risen to command of the labor side of an entire major industry?

Before this story is ended—unless some or all of the public officials concerned neglect their duty or accept bribes or yield to threats — not only Bioff, but others in the labor racket and the movie industry, may be shown up.

* * *

If Bioff got $100,000 from a big movie magnate, regardless of whether or not it was called a loan—which is what he does call it—how do you like that kind of labor representation under the protection of the Wagner Act, and how does the Los Angeles Labor Council justify its solicitude for this convicted criminal?

The Screen Actors' Guild of Hollywood, a section of the great, all-embracing national union of performers, already has withdrawn from the Los Angeles Labor Council in protest against that body's resolution on behalf of Bioff.

And further developments — if the officials, both federal and state, in both California and Illinois, are closely watched and not allowed to sneak over any fast ones—might show why it was that the movie industry—that is to say, the employing side—liked to sit across the table from Bioff in the role of labor's man.

* * *

The magnates never made any move to discredit Bioff, although that past was a matter of common knowledge in Los Angeles for years, and no magnate had anything to do with its revelation a few weeks ago. Even though Willie sometimes went through the motions of enacting wage increases for the "little fellows," the magnates had no wish or motive to get him out of there.

Analysis of those wage increases will show that they are bigger in effect on paper than in cash returns to the rank and file.

And examination of the facts will show that Bioff's union, which includes the stagehands, has done more than all the other factors combined to destroy the speaking stage in the entire United States, and thus remove the greatest competitor of the movie industry.

* * *

Bioff's union performed this great service for the movie industry in a pretense of improving the lot of the stagehands in the theaters. What it did actually was to raise the wages of the stagehands so high that the legitimate stage could not operate. Thus, while a very few stagehands got high wages, their field of employment was almost wiped out, and vast numbers of actors were thrown out of jobs with them, and the movie industry got the benefit.

The arrogance of this racket was its final undoing. The boys made their mistake last summer, when they tried to muscle into the actors' union and just take them over under the hoodlum leadership of Willie Bioff, without even a pretense of a vote by the actors themselves.

Attempts have been made to cover up for Bioff and others in Los Angeles, and the resolution in his favor by the Los Angeles Central Labor council assists in this attempt, whatever the actual motives of the council may have been. And there has been so much failure and evasion by public officials up to now that it must be assumed that the investigation and prosecution will be thorough only if the officials are kept in the glare of public scrutiny and suspicion constantly until the job is done.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—A vital young person is Peggy Thompson, who didn't expect to set the censors on their ears but did.

All she wanted (says Peggy) was to write a serious study of a real life problem, and that was what she did in the French-made film, "Remous," now playing in this country under the title "Whirlpool of Desire."

One of the places the censors have frowned, so far, is New York. In England they made serious cuts before permitting it to go on view. Peggy hasn't seen it in Los Angeles yet, and doesn't know how complete a print is on exhibition.

Peggy is 28. She is slim and red-haired and very good-humored about the whole thing.

A New York girl reared in St. Louis and a graduate of Washington university there, she was a junior writer with a film company in New York when, in 1931, she decided to go abroad and write a book. She lived in Paris, met and worked and played with other young people of all nationalities and shades of opinion.

* * *

"We should meet and settle the affairs of the world and of life, and the idea for the picture was born in just such an all-night bull session," she says. "I maintained that women, as well as men, could separate the physical from the emotional in love, and to prove my point I began writing a film play about it. In the process, as the plot became more complicated and the characters developed, I proved my point wrong. That's the idea in the picture—they can't.

"I was surprised when the film met censor trouble, because it had seemed to me that there is more frankness in discussion of everything nowadays. The European psychology is different—we Americans like more humor in our entertainment, we're less inclined to 'be Russian' about our problems."

Her laugh indicates that Peggy, herself, isn't inclined to "be Russian" either, although she does enjoy the serious, thoughtful and frank approach to problems.

* * *

Since doing "Remous" three years ago—it was her first original screen story—she has been working as a script writer in England. On leave for a visit here prior to the war (the conflict closed her studios), she's spending her time now recuperating from serious injuries in an auto accident. She has scripted a couple of western films, but feels they're not her forte although she admits the important place of the "western" in the movie world. She used to defend herself when a producer accused her of being "artistic" but decided that being "artistic"—if that was what she was—didn't need defense.

"I like to write about real people and their problems, with honesty, and there's nothing wrong with that," she insists.

The girl has a grand sense of humor, too—telling, for instance, about the "silent scene" in the picture. They worked and worked on dialogue for it, this meeting between the heroine's husband and her lover, and got nowhere until they decided, finally, that in such a situation there would be nothing to say.

"It's a grand solution," she laughs. "I think I'll use it again whenever I get stuck for dialogue!"

CITY PURCHASES STATION WAGON

Moorhead Agency Gets Order; To Be Used By Engineers.

A new station wagon will be added to the city's rolling stock within a few days. The contract was let yesterday to the Moorhead agency, according to Service-Safety Director Earl Nist.

The Moorhead bid was $833, 75 cents less than the second lowest bid, submitted by the Colby-Earick agency. The wagon will be used by the city engineering office for transportation of workers and instruments.

MOTHER OF 2 SENTENCED IN NEGLECT CASE

Probate Judge C. J. Anderson today had revoked the parole of a 42-year-old mother and sentenced her to one year in the Marysville reformatory for failing to care for her two children.

Mrs. Edward Lee, Ninth avenue, arrested by county authorities Tuesday, was charged with the violation of a one year suspended sentence passed by the court Nov. 30 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her children.

County authorities charged Mrs. Lee had failed to properly care for her children and on numerous occasions had been away from home all night.

Judge Anderson also sentenced Oral Hinkle 26 of Mansfield to six months in the county jail on his plea of guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Arrested Sunday.

Hinkle was arrested Sunday with a companion Harry Boreland both of whom are accused of molesting a 13-year-old Pavonia girl whom they allegedly lured to a rooming house on East Fourth street.

Boreland, held in the county jail, is charged with rape in an indictment, one of the 11 sub-rosa bills returned by the grand jury Tuesday. He was served with the paper yesterday.

Native Chieftains Of Africa Hoot at Hitler, His Claims

LONDON — (INS) — Colored folks of Africa have expressed their disapproval of the Fuehrer and his war and have voted "three hootings for Hitler" according to a native newspaper which has just reached London.

The natives met at a Gold Coast Durbar, held in connection with the Odwira celebrations. The report of the meeting, addressed by the Omanhene, Nana Ofori Kuma II of Akwapin, is as follows:

"After the Omanhene had stated the case of Great Britain and Hitler's Germany, all the linguists rose up and went into consultation, and on their return the Chief Linguist gave judgment.

"This went in favor of his Majesty the King, representing Great Britain, or against Hitler," stated the report.

"Three cheers were raised for the King for winning the case, and three hootings against Hitler whose case was bad."

Taxicab Driver, Brother's Book To Be Published

OMAHA, Neb.—(AP)—A young taxicap driver and his still younger brother—a bus depot porter—have written a book. It's called "The Ridgewood Murders," and a publisher has accepted it.

It took Martin Hume, 28, and his 22-year-old brother, Carr Lyle, three years to turn out the book, started when both were students at Wessington Springs, S. D., junior college.

Martin, who drives the cab, works 10 hours a day and collaborates with Carr Lyle, who has only a part-time job, when both can get together.

U. S. Navy's Giant New Mystery Plane

This is the United States Navy's newest warplane, the PXBG-5A, world's largest amphibian long-range patrol bomber, pictured as it arrived in Washington, D. C., from San Antonio, Texas. The plane, built in San Diego, has a wingspread of 104 feet and is 65 feet long. Its specifications and armament are secret.

REACH REFUGE

War Pigeons Find Haven in Switzerland Alps.

SION, Switzerland — (AP) — Mountaineers on the Swiss slopes of the Alps near the Matterhorn are taking care of dozens of winged "soldiers" of the European war.

First to arrive at the high mountain ridges barring their way to the south were 10 weary and bedraggled carrier pigeons with little containers strapped to their legs marked "Varsovia - Polonia Fr. 139."

The messages they carried were sent to Swiss army headquarters. Officers said the pigeons probably found the posts to which their messages were destined had been deserted or destroyed.

Other birds have reached the Alps from the western front. All apparently headed south with migratory birds when, for some reason or another, they could not reach their bases.

Alabama's Supply of Rat Poison Cut Off by New War

MONTGOMERY, Ala. —(INS)— The war in Europe threatens to add to the difficulties of health workers in Alabama.

Practically the entire world supply of red squill, the type of rat poison used in this state in the campaign against endemic typhus fever (Brill's disease), comes from the Mediterranean islands of Sardinia and Sicily. The war has virtually stopped the importation of the product.

Dr. A. J. Perollo, assistant state director of typhus fever control, declared that within the past few weeks the price of this product has increased from 75 cents to $1.50 per pound and that the importing firm has just informed its customers that shipments to this country have practically come to an end.

Dr. Perollo estimated that typhus campaigns in Alabama require the use of approximately 1,000 pounds of red squill per month. This is not the only form of rat poison available but is the most desirable as it is not poisonous to human being or domestic animals.

CONVICTS GET BREAK IN WAR

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Convicts in Britain are today better protected than the average householder against air raids and gas attacks.

Every convict in British prisons has been provided with a tin helmet and gas mask. In addition, overalls and decontamination suits are available for them.

They will be marched to the lower part of the jails and remain there until the danger has passed.

Some of the keenest air wardens in the prisons are trusted prisoners and the officers have had no trouble in teaching their classes all there is to know about precautions.

At all times there have been fire precautions in which prisoners are trained, but now Britain is at war, squads to deal with incendiary bombs, first aid and stretcher-bearing have been formed.

Prisoners transferred from jails considered vulnerable to air raids to other prisons have caused extra strain on prison staffs, and this is considered one of the reasons for the recent abnormal number of escapes.

COUNTED DUCK TOO SOON

SEDALIA, Mo.—(AP)—A duck hunter, returning from a hunt, opened his game bag on the street to show a friend the giant duck he had brought down. Out flew the duck.
